ABANDON ISRAELI AID

Arab Spokesman's Oil Crisis Solution

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A leading spokesman for the Arab world last night promised its oil will flow again to the West "the moment America stops its aid to Israel."

But the embargo on oil to the energy-short West will go on for many years if the U.S. refuses to abandon its long policy of supporting Israel, warned Dr. Mohammed T. Mehdi in an interview with the Independent-Journal.

He called President Nixon a liar for claiming Monday night that the critical shortage of oil was only temporary.

The end of all U.S. Government military and economic aid to Israel would force Israel to negotiate a permanent peace, he said. He espoused the traditional Arab view that Israel stole its territory from the Palestinian Arabs.

Mehdi, in the Bay Area for a two-day visit as part of a nationwide speaking tour, envisioned a reconstituted Israeli state. It would be "a multireligious, pluralistic society, but the state would be secular," he said.

Very few Israeli citizens "are on this advanced level," he asserted, adding "most of them are racists suffering from bitter past experiences." Such a state, Mehdi said, would provide a democracy he defined as "the theoretical possibility for the minorities to become — peacefully — majorities."

Mehdi, 45, was interviewed at the Novato home of an old friend, Wafa Darwazeh, controller of a San Rafael propane gas distributor. A man of considerable charm, Mehdi is the son of an illiterate Baghdad coffee house owner.

He graduated from the Baghdad (high) School of Commerce, and came to the U.S. in 1949 as a student. He received his bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees in political science while at the University of California at Berkeley for 10 years.

(He recalled a special love affair with Marin, dating back to 1953 when he and his wife honeymooned in Stinson

ARAB SPOKESMAN — Dr. Mohammed T. Mehdi, principal spokesman in America for the Arab cause and advocate of the Arabian oil embargo, pauses to reflect on the arguments supporting the Arab cause. Formerly a resident of the Bay Area, now living in New York and seeking U.S. citizenship, he thinks U.S. policy in the Middle East has been wrong.

Police Follow Witness Clues In San Rafael Woman's Death

A "Secret Witness", who already has come forward, may collect $2,000 if the murder of Mrs. Nina Fischer of San Rafael is solved. Or the reward may go for information yet to be offered.

Marin County sheriff's officers today reported they were pursuing two lines of inquiry opened by anonymous communications to "Secret Witness" regarding the slaying of Mrs. Fischer in her San Pedro Point home on Nov. 15.

But both may prove to be "blind alleys," and Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos has urged that anyone else who has information that might help solve the crime, but wants to remain anonymous, communicate by letter with Secret Witness, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael 94902.

Meanwhile, San Anselmo Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani was hoping for response to an I-J reward offer of $2,000 for "Secret Witness" information leading to arrest and conviction of the hit-run motorist who killed Harmen Evers on a San Anselmo street last Friday.

The $4,000 in these two cases is part of that outstanding in

Park And Library Bonds Set For Petaluma Vote

Bond measures totaling $2,650,000 for parks and library development were set for a March 5 vote last night by the Petaluma City Council.

Voters will be asked to approve $1.9 million in bonds for park development and $750,000 toward construction of a new library at Kenilworth Park.

If approved, the park bonds would add an estimated 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation to the tax rate and the library bonds would add an estimated eight cents, according to city staff.

Park development would include completion of the 30-acre Lucchesi Park on Maria Drive and improvements to the municipal swim center and McNear Park.

City Clerk Lillian Nommsen said the council accepted the recommendation of library consultants to locate the new building at Kenilworth Park. A 30-page report indicated the site would be best since the city already owns the land and room would be available for expansion later.

The $750,000 in bonds would be supplemented by federal revenue sharing funds from both Petaluma and Sonoma County. Total cost for the one-story building was estimated at $1,250,000.

Plans call for a 24,250 square foot building to contain 100,000 volumes and a small multipurpose room for meetings by community groups. An 80-space parking lot was also included in plans.

In other business, the council approved a $3,000 contract with Lampman and Associates of San Francisco for engineering work on a traffic signal system on East Washington Street at Maria Drive.

Parents of students at the nearby Bernard Eldredge School had requested signals be installed to provide greater safety for youngsters walking to school.

Board Delays Corrections Bureau Plan

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Creation of the county's new department of corrections was held up yesterday by Marin County Supervisors at the request of Marin judges. (Other supervisors stories, page 5.)

E. Warren McGuire, presiding judge of Marin Superior Court, said he was disturbed by a related proposal that the new department take over operation of the probation department's work furlough program.

Such a shift, as well as the department's future role in rehabilitation of inmates assigned to the minimum security honor farm, should be discussed fully before approval, he said.

After lengthy debate, supervisors voted 3 to 2 to delay formally creating the new department and instead meet with superior and municipal court judges Friday at 1 p.m. at Civic Center.

The meeting will be held in Room 254.

In his letter, McGuire warned that "it is not desirable" to fragment the responsibility of rehabilitating jail prisoners between two departments.

He added that the "San Quentin Prison task force report recommending the establishment of a county department of corrections was in part based on a state policy of phasing out large state penal institutions and subsidizing local facilities . . ."

That state policy "is clearly no longer in effect," he said.

The judge noted that San Diego County's experience with a department of corrections "has been negative."

Supporting the delay, Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini said it is vital the new department have the support of the judges, since they will be deciding who will be assigned to the honor farm to be operated by the department.

Supervisor Michael Wornum agreed, adding "conditions have changed" since the board first approved the idea of a corrections department in May.

He said while he still supports the idea, he would like to discuss the changes in state policy to see if they affect the direction of the department.

Supervisors Arnold M. Baptiste and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said they opposed any delay in adopting the resolution since the board had already committed itself to the new department.

"It's a smoke screen to cause a delay and bring pressure on this board to change its position" supporting the department, Arrigoni said. He opposed creation of the department in May but said yesterday since a majority of the board supported it he backed their decision.

Supervisors and judges have been at odds over the future of the probation department, which is involved in a consolidation with the health and welfare departments.

Remap Is Ordered By Supreme Court

Many Legislators Face Loss Of Seats

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The state Supreme Court today ordered a massive reapportionment of California's legislative and congressional districts which is expected to bring many new faces into the state assembly and senate after the 1974 election.

The court's decision to accept virtually intact a plan proposed by a special court-appointed panel for major shifts in the state's political districts ended a three-year struggle between the legislature and Gov. Ronald Reagan, who were unable to agree on plans for reapportionment, required as a result of the 1970 census.

The supreme court's decision was unanimous. Justice Louis H. Burke disqualified himself because a former law partner represented a party in the case.

The plan by the panel of three retired judges, called masters, which was submitted to the court for consideration on Aug. 31, is expected to result in more closely contested races next year. As the panel said in its report, the plan is "neither politically unfair nor unfair to incumbents, but may result in fewer safe seats and more competitive seats."

Legislative leaders and political observers said the plan was likely to give the Democrats a greater chance to control both houses of the legislature. The congressional redistricting plan was not expected to have as significant an impact on the delegation's political lineup.

The high court redrew none of the district lines recommended by the masters. Its only modification was to reverse the numbering of senate districts 8 and 9 in Alameda County and 27 and 30 in Los Angeles County.

The massive shifts in district boundaries in the masters' plan left a number of incumbents living outside the boundaries of their districts, and already several had changed their residences in anticipation of court approval of the plan.

The redistricting will leave Marin representatives to the Legislature and Congress unchanged, but will alter the boundaries of their districts.

The reapportionment will take Napa and Solano counties away from Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael and instead give him most of Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte counties. Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, whose old district includes some of the area in Behr's new district, has said he plans to move next year from Siskiyou County and run against Behr.

Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, faces a significant loss of Republican registration under the redistricting. The Western Addition, Fillmore and Haight-Ashbury sections of San Francisco, with their heavy Democratic registration, have been added to Mailliard's district. And some Republican areas in southwest San Francisco have been shifted from his district to that of Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Fifth District.

The Seventh Assembly District, now represented by San Rafael Republican William T. Bagley, will not be affected particularly by the reapportionment. It will lose the city of Sonoma, but retain the rest of Southern Sonoma and all of Marin.

The court had stepped in to take jurisdiction after the legislature and governor were unable to agree. The masters rejected the plans drawn up by the legislature, saying "The objective of reapportionment should not be the political survival or comfort of those already in office."

The masters also said that the congressional and assembly remap plans "needlessly depart from the criteria of compactness and maintenance of county line and city line integrity."

The court said that since the new districts will not have been in existence for a full year prior to the 1974 general election, the one year residency requirement for state legislators will not be applicable. However, the court said a candidate must be a resident of a district in which he runs by Jan. 28, 1974.

Half of the senate seats, those from newly reapportioned even-numbered districts, will be contested in 1974, and the odd-numbered districts in 1976.

Oil Shale Lands Opened Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton today ordered the western oil shale lands opened for development and said he is ready to issue a right-of-way permit for the trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

The twin actions by Morton will not warm the nation's homes or fuel its industry this winter or even in the next few years, but will open the way to vast new energy sources in the late 1970s and 1980s.

Prospects for the immediate future, under newly published government regulations, are that homes and businesses will be 6 to 10 degrees colder than last winter.

Morton said he expected to issue the trans-Alaska pipeline permit in the next two weeks. President Nixon signed legislation Nov. 16 clearing away legal impediments to construction of the 789-mile-long pipeline to carry oil from the frozen north slope fields in Alaska to the ice-free southern port of Valdez.

Aleyeska Pipeline Co., the firm created by a consortium of oil companies to build the line, hailed Morton's plans to issue the right-of-way permit as "a most significant milestone."

Edward L. Patton, Aleyeska president, said in a statement issued simultaneously with Morton's announcement that "we are hopeful that there will be no new challenges" in court to the project which he said would be started in the spring.

Patton also cautioned would-be job seekers not to go to unemployment ridden Alaska looking for work. "There are absolutely no pipeline construction jobs presently available in Alaska," he said, and that none will be available for quite some time.

Morton also announced he would ask about 250 private industry executives to serve temporarily in administering the government emergency fuel allocation program.

Most of the industry experts are members of the National Defense Executive Reserve who, under the 1950 Defense Production Act, are on a standby basis for federal callup in an energy emergency.

Nixon's Secretary Now Wonders If She Erased Any Conversation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rose Mary Woods, President Nixon's personal secretary, said today she did not know whether she actually erased any conversation on a White House tape because she said she never listened to the segment in question.

"I never used the word erased because I was never sure there was anything there to erase," Miss Woods said.

Miss Woods testified earlier in the court of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica that while transcribing the tape she accidentally pushed the "record" button on the machine when a telephone call distracted her.

But she said her action could have accounted for only a four or five minute obliteration rather than an 18-minute hum on the tape.

"Have you intended to testify that you erased any words—be it a 4-½ minute segment or an 18 minute segment—from any part of the tape of June 20 (1972)?" her lawyer Charles S. Rhyne asked her today.

"No sir," she replied. "I've never used the word erase. I never heard any words on that segment."

Lawyers for the White House, the prosecution and Miss Woods rejected a request by the news media to be allowed to make copies of the tape that had been played in court yesterday.

"It seems the principal reason was because the tape has not been analyzed by experts yet," Sirica told reporters during a recess.

But he said he had "no personal objection" to an alternative request that reporters be allowed to listen to the tape a second time. He said he would discuss this request with the lawyers.

Sirice also said he would hear arguments in his chambers Friday on White House claims that portions of the subpoenaed tapes and couments are covered by executive privilege and thus should not be submitted to the grand jury or made public.

Sirica said he would start listening to the tapes next Monday and technical analysis by experts to determine whether any may have been tampered with would be done "as soon as possible."

Nixon To Give Congress Report On His Finances

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will send to Congress a series of reports providing "complete information" and documentation on his personal finances and other allegations, the White House said today.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren refused to say whether Nixon's actual income tax returns would be included in the package.

He said there was a possibility the first of the reports may be delivered to members of Congress this week.

In a continuation of his Watergate counteroffensive meetings dubbed "Operation Candor," Nixon has discussed his plan for the forthcoming financial disclosures. But there has been a question as to whether the returns themselves would be open to public review.

"The President wants to clear up all of these misconceptions which surround his personal finances and taxes," Warren said. "There will be a complete answer to all of the charges made against him personally and his family."

Specifically, Warren said that included in the White House

Resumption Of Offshore Oil Drilling Is Deplored

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Alarmed environmentalists today deplored the expected resumption of offshore drilling in state waters, declaring it poses the threat of another "catastrophic" oil spill in the Santa Barbara channel.

The action could "conceivably destroy one of the most beautiful shorelines in America," declared Al Weingand, chairman of Santa Barbara's Get Oil Out (GOO) group.

Weingand, a former state senator, made the comment following yesterday's recommendation by the staff of the state Lands Commission that offshore drilling be resumed. Other conservationists also expressed alarm at the proposal.

The ban on drilling was imposed in 1969 after a Union Oil Co. well blowout in federal waters in the channel. The accident resulted in 800,000 gallons of crude oil smearing the Pacific Ocean, blackening beaches and killing thousands of birds.

Under the recommendations by the commission's staff— expected to be approved by the panel Dec. 11—new drilling would be limited to existing platforms. The staff also proposed 25 pages of regulations aimed at preventing oil spill damage.

Each proposed drilling operation would have to be approved individually by the Lands Commission and the regional coastal commission.

The coastal groups are required by law to ban any drilling which would have "any substantial adverse ecological effect."

HOUSTON I. FLOURNOY
Favors end of ban

Weingand warned new drilling "poses a grave threat of another catastrophic oil spill."

Larry Moss, Southern California representative of the Sierra Club, declared the oil industry has not provided an "adequate" showing that it has the technology to control all possible oil spills.

He also said resumption of drilling was "the first step toward increased sale of leases and new platforms up and down the coast."

David L. Hirsch of Los Angeles, president of the Planning and Conservation League, declared renewed drilling will do little to help ease the fuel shortage.

"There is no question that the amount of oil which will be obtained in the Santa Barbara Channel won't solve this problem," he said.

Ed Gladish, executive officer of the Lands Commission, estimated 200 to 300 million barrels of oil would be available with renewed drilling.

The staff report on new drilling will officially be submitted tomorrow to the commission, which is composed of Controller Houston I. Flournoy, Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke and state Finance Director Verne Orr.

Flournoy announced yesterday that offshore drilling is being planned.

All have indicated they will approve renewed drilling Dec. 11 barring unforseen questions.

Big Boost In Bike Use Not Likely

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Large numbers of Californians are not likely to turn to the bicycle for transportation because of the worsening energy crisis, a state Transportation Department researcher says.

Michael Moore, a consultant conducting a 16-month study on bicycle use for the department, yesterday said bicycling "has received a real impetus" because of the crisis.

But he added, "We are under no illusions that it is the radical wave of the future. There can't be instant widespread use."

He cited a lack of facilities to handle commuting bicyclists and the tired state of a person after a long trip.

Moore said bicycling will have to be tied in with mass transit if it is to become a major means of transportation for commuters.

Daylight Savings Time Could Be In Effect Before Christmas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has brought the nation half way toward year round daylight saving time as a means of conserving energy.

The legislation, which would put the country on DST until the end of April, 1975, passed the House yesterday 311 to 88.

If the bill is passed by the Senate and signed into law by President Nixon, almost everyone in the country would have to turn their clocks ahead one hour—the first time since World War II the nation has been on year round DST.

The forward movement of clocks would take effect 15 days after final enactment of the legislation — meaning it could take place before the Christmas holidays.

States would no longer have the option, either winter or summer, of exempting themselves from the advanced time, as they are now permitted to do under law. However, states that lie within two different time zones would be able to exempt one portion of the state so that there would be a uniform time for the entire state.

The bill passed despite arguments the sun would not rise until after 9 a.m. on the western edges of the time zones during winter.

President Nixon requested the time change as one way to conserve energy.

Supporters argued that less energy would be used if there were an extra hour of daylight in the evening hours, and that evening peaks in electrical consumption would be reduced, resulting in energy savings of 1 to 3 per cent.

Opponents said the extra daylight time would encourage greater recreational use of automobiles and have little effect on the use of electrical appliances, heaters and air conditioners, even though it would result in an hour's less use of lights.

"I call it the golfer's delight," said Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa.

But Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, said it was necessary for the country to make sacrifices in the face of the energy shortage.

High Sulfur Oil Use Is Approved

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The state Environmental Commission, noting the bleak national energy picture, yesterday gave Sierra Pacific Power Co. permission to use high sulfur oil this winter in cases of emergency.

The high sulfur oil produces more air pollution and Sierra's authority to use it expired in December this year.

Tornadoes And Storms Lash South

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Tornadoes and thunderstorms lashed parts of Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama yesterday, demolishing two trailer parks and blowing the roof off a school filled with children. Three persons were killed and at least 128 others injured.

The turbulence, spawned by a fast-moving cold front, kept sections of Alabama, Georgia, the Carolinas and Tennessee on a tornado watch until this morning.

Torrential rains caused the three deaths, all in Tennessee. Donnie Ayers, 1, was crushed in the collapse of his home, undermined by swirling rain water. Albert Daniels and Antonia Denese Forbes, 11, drowned in flooded ditches.

Tornadoes injured 70 persons in Mississippi, 42 in Alabama and 16 in Tennessee.

Highways Blocked

BELFAST (UPI) — The outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) blocked dozens of highways across Northern Ireland today with hundreds of stolen cars, buses and trucks. The army said three persons died in the huge operation.

Authorities said the gunmen hijacked and possibly booby-trapped 200 vehicles to halt all traffic on 91 main roads.

Some of the vehicles exploded in a flash of flame at dawn and bombs inside others were defused. An army spokesman said 31 highways remained closed as the morning rush hour began.

In Wake Of Coup

ATHENS (UPI) — New Greek Premier Adamantios Androutsopoulos intends to issue a call today for "pure democracy" to follow the Sunday coup against former President George Papadopoulos, regime sources said.

The military rulers moved today to gain wider support, freeing protesters jailed for taking part in a three-day rebellion against Papadopoulos.

In his scheduled address to the nation tonight, Androutsopoulos was also expected to announce an end to military tribunals for such violations.

India Aid Pact

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev and Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi were putting the final touches on an agreement expected to provide long-term Russian economic aid to India.

Newspapers said Brezhnev and Mrs. Gandi had agreed to a 15-year treaty for economic, scientific and technological collaboration.

The pact, expected to be signed tomorrow before Brezhnev's departure for home Friday, will commit the Soviet Union to helping with such projects as steel, heavy engineering, oil exploration and agriculture, the newspapers said.

Victory Seen

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — President Lon Nol said today government forces are advancing "toward victory" and warned insurgents they had better switch sides while they still have the chance.

In his fourth trip to the field in five weeks, the ailing six-star general told a group of soldiers, monks refugees and Communist defectors at Phnom Baset, 10 miles southwest of the capital, three years of war had not weakened Cambodian government forces.

Wife Takes Over

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The wife of President Juan D. Peron has taken over an increasing share of her husband's duties despite medical reports the aging leader has recovered from a week-old ailment.

Argentine officials said Maria Estela, 41, Peron's vice president, will represent the country next Monday at a ceremony in Asuncion, Paraguay, to make the start of work on a dam over the Parana River.

Maria Estela, also known by the nickname Isabel, also presided at a cabinet meeting today.

Base Recaptured

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese government forces today recaptured the strategic Central Highlands base camp of Dak Song, 120 miles northeast of Saigon near the Cambodian border, a command spokesman reported.

Saigon command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said government soldiers retook Dak Song, beside national Highway 14, after heavy fighting early today. He gave no casualty report, but military sources called the fighting "heavy."

PUZZLED PATRIOT

Next time Mrs. Reva Williams drives 50 miles an hour you can bet it will be legal. At the suggestion of President Nixon that all motorists keep their speed at 50 to conserve on fuel, Mrs. Williams did so on US 90A, southwest of Houston, Tyx., and got a ticket for her patriotism. The posted speed limit was 65 miles an hour and her ticket was for driving too slowly. A spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety said patrolmen will continue to ticket slow drivers if they are obstructing the flow of traffic.

House Confirmation Due Next For Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice Presidential nominee Gerald R. Ford centered his drive for confirmation in the House today, bolstered by a 92-3 Senate vote of approval.

The historic Senate vote came yesterday as Ford's wife, Betty, and family friends watched from the gallery and Ford himself waited a few feet from the House chamber, in the office of Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

It was the first time a branch of Congress acted under the 25th Amendment, ratified in 1967, which provides for majority votes in the House and Senate to confirm a president's nomination to fill a vacancy in the vice presidency.

The House is expected to take up the nomination Dec. 6. Easy confirmation in the House is predicted even by a leading opponent, Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif.

"I guess we would be lucky if we could get 70 votes (out of a potential 434) against Ford on the floor," Waldie told UPI.

Voting against Ford in the Senate were Sens. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.; William Hathaway, D-Maine, and Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo.

Nelson said Ford wouldn't provide the kind of "inspirational leadership this nation will need should he succeed to the presidency." Eagleton leveled the same criticism.

President Nixon, who nominated Ford Oct. 12, two days after Spiro T. Agnew resigned, telephoned congratulations to Ford.

Conference On Mideast Peace Set In Geneva

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Russia are inviting the Arabs and Israel to a peace conference in Geneva beginning Dec. 18.

A State Department spokesman said the first bids went out yesterday. It was understood that those invited include Israel, Egypt, Syria and Jordan. The question of whether the Palestinians will be permitted to attend appears to have been left undecided.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said a week ago that the question of inviting representatives of the Palestinian refugees could be put off until the conference had an opportunity to decide.

Two Women Victims Of Sex Attacks

Two Marin women were the victims of sexual assaults in the past two days and police are weighing the possibility that the attacks may have been committed by one man preying on unescorted women in the Southern Marin area.

Tiburon police reported that a 30-year-old woman was raped last night by a knife-carrying assailant after she got off Golden Gate Transit bus on Tiburon Boulevard.

Officers said she was returning home from work at 10:45, was followed from the bus stop by a man who grabbed her from behind, held a pocket knife to her face and led her into a field where he forced her to disrobe, then raped her. She was not robbed.

The woman described the man as white, with dark Afro-style hair, 30 years old, about five feet, eight inches tall and wearing a dark jacket and pants.

A 37-year-old Mill Valley woman told police yesterday a man armed with a revolver accosted her at 7:30 p.m. in the parking lot on Miller Avenue and told her to drive to a lonely road on Mount Tamalpais where she was beaten and forced to commit a sex act.

She described him as about 25 years old, six feet tall, 175 to 185 pounds, with dark curly hair about shoulder length, dark complexion and dark circles under the eyes.

The man took $11 from her. He drove back to Mill Valley and freed her.

Shop Building Plans Approved

Plans for construction of a shop building at San Antonio Continuation High School were approved last night by the Petaluma Board of Education.

The contract for construction was awarded to Rapp Construction Co. of Santa Rosa at the bid of $58,888. Board secretary Linda Harris said the construction will be the final phase in the building program at the new campus on Jefferson Street.

The board also awarded two contracts to Rich Brooks Electrical Co. of Novato for parking lot lights at Casa Grande Junior-Senior High School at $13,469 and tennis court lights at Rancho Cotate High School at $6,500.

The board will meet next on Dec. 11 at 7 p.m. at the administration building for a public hearing on plans to unify local school districts.

Nine Are Named School Advisers

Nine residents of the Kentfield School District have been named by Supt. Eugene C. Peters to serve as a selection committee for the district's new citizens' advisory council, Dr. Peters said today.

They are Mary Lou Ambinder, Howard Beckendorf, Joanne Berry, Blaine Boyden, Peggy Colwell, Paul Euphrat, Lawrence Goldberg, Martha Hollenbeck and Neil Park.

Peters will serve as the 10th member of the committee, which is charged with selecting 21 persons representing various age groups and factions within the district.

Park Member Is Appointed

Barbara Schrock, advocate of recreation facilities for Tamalpais Valley, was appointed last night by directors of the community services district to the district's park and recreation commission.

Mrs. Schrock, 34, was an unsuccessful write-in candidate for the district board in the Nov. 6 election. Her campaign urged the development of recreation facilities at Tamalpais Valley's two undeveloped parks, Eastwood and Rhubarb.

An artist, Mrs. Schrock of 373 Countyview Drive was selected from among five candidates for the post, according to Richard A. Drever Jr., board president.

Baker Discusses Major Missing Watergate Tie

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., says a major "missing piece" in the overall Watergate investigation is an unspecified national security matter mentioned recently by President Nixon.

In an interview late yesterday Baker, vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, said that if it was shown that the matter was related to the Watergate case, "then I've got a problem."

Nixon and Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, have taken the position that the matter was too sensitive to be made public or for the committee to investigate. Baker said he did not necessarily agree with them.

During a committee hearing July 26, former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman first raised the issue, saying he preferred not to testify about what he called an "extremely sensitive" matter.

Ehrlichman characterized it as "germane to the Pentagon Papers situation" —presumably referring to Daniel Ellsberg's action in giving secret documents on the genesis of the Vietnam war to some newsmen.

In a Nov. 17 news conference in Orlando, Fla., Nixon twice referred to "very highly sensitive matters" that he said Ervin and Baker had decided not to delve into.

Syndicated Columnist Jack Anderson said yesterday that an investigation of the White House "plumbers" —the group connected with the break-in of the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist —"might reveal that the Central Intelligence Agency eavesdrops on Kremlin leaders."

Former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson was asked in a television interview Tuesday night whether the national security matter that Nixon referred to concerned bugs in the Kremlin. Richardson did not respond directly.

Baker said in an interview, "the tip of the iceberg may be the only thing showing. I'm not sure we can put it together." He added that a major "missing piece" in the entire affair was the national security matter that Nixon referred to in Orlando. Baker also said he told the Watergate committee at an executive session Tuesday that he believes the question of any possible involvement of the CIA "and other agencies" in the break-in of Democratic national headquarters deserved more investigation.

He refused to elaborate on what evidence he had, but said there was "a little more" than what has been contained in recent articles.

NIXON

reports will be answers to allegations that Tricia Nixon Cox "did not pay taxes on a property investment."

He said that the charge that Nixon has a $1 million investment portfolio—denied by the White House—also will be covered.

Nixon "obviously will approve and check" whatever is sent to Congress but is not participating personally in the preparation, Warren said.

The President has acknowledged that he paid only "nominal" income taxes for the years of 1970 and 1972, after he took a $500,000 deduction for vice presidential papers turned over to the National Archives.

Nixon told a dinner gathering of 37 Democratic congressmen last night the package also will include information concerning the controversial antitrust case involving the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

The President rounded up the House members as part of his counteroffensive to answer Watergate related allegations in his fight to restore confidence in his administration.

Nixon Would Add To Wilderness

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — President Nixon today proposed adding more than a million acres, including 10,600 acres of the Point Reyes National Seashore, to the National Wilderness Preservation System.

If approved by Congress, the President's plan would mean that about one-sixth of the 64,546-acre seashore would remain in wilderness.

No cars or development of any kind would be permitted in the wilderness preserve, according to John Sansing, Point Reyes superintendent. In addition, the law makes it possible to limit the number of people who can visit the area at a given time.

reward offers for information leading to solution of major Marin crimes.

I-J publisher Wishard A. Brown inaugurated the "Secret Witness" program on Nov. 2, 1970, in hope of solving the bombing of the Marin County Hall of Justice. Reward of $1,000 was offered for information leading to arrest and conviction of the bomber or bombers. That case is still unsolved, and the reward still awaits a claimant.

Also still outstanding is an offer of $100 for information to the identity of the person who threw a rock that struck 16-year-old Elizabeth Murray in the eye as she sat in a bus after a San Rafael-Terra Linda high school football game in October, 1972.

A major reward still outstanding is $1,000 for information leading to solution of the disappearance of 6-year-old Tracy Lynn Davenport in San Rafael last May.

Another unsolved case is the vandalism of the radio KTIM transmitter tower on the Silveira Ranch north of the Civic Center last April 1. A reward of $1,000 is offered in that case.

A $250 reward awaits anyone providing information leading to arrest and conviction of the person or persons guilty of a series of dog poisonings in Mill Valley last spring and summer.

"Secret Witness" reward offers have helped solve several major crimes in Marin in the last three years. And information volunteered through the program has resulted in clearing up numerous burglaries and lesser crimes.

The program makes it possible to assist law enforcement officers without getting involved.

Here is how it works:

Write the information you have on a sheet of paper. Do not sign it. Write the same five-digit number on both bottom corners of the sheet. Tear off one corner and keep it. Mail the letter to Secret Witness, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael 94902.

The information contained in the letter will be supplied to the law enforcement agency with jurisdiction in the case. If it leads to arrest and conviction, the reward may be claimed by presenting the torn-off number, which will match the sheet on which you sent the information. The informant's name need never be known.

Beach.)

Now a resident of New York City, Mehdi is secretary-general and founder of the Action Committee on American-Arab Relations, which claims some 30,000 members, and founder and executive director of the Arab Anti-Defamation League. He also lectures, writes and is executive editor of Action, a weekly publication which proclaims it is "dedicated to the liberation of Palestine."

He has revisited the Mideast only a few times, most recently this year when he spent six months, meeting with the heads of most of the nations there, including King Faisal of Saudi Arabia and the sheikhs of the oil-rich states along the Persian Gulf.

His purpose was to urge them "to use their fantastic economic power to liberate their land, and to renounce war." Taking some credit for the embargo, Mehdi declared "oil is power," and "more effective than the Arab military leverage."

He argued the embargo is not blackmail, but the Arab response to U.S. responsibility for giving Israel 52,000 tons of military gear for the latest war — equipment used to kill 15,000 Arabs, he said.

"So now the Americans are going to shiver, and should remember that Arabs have been shivering in refugee camps for 25 years," Mehdi said without a trace of bitterness. "It's a case of America's chickens come home to roost."

The U.S. also should wipe out the tax exempt status of Jewish organizations that raise money for Israel, he said, "so that society at large would not be financing Israeli war machinery." Special tax provisions for Israel bonds also should be eliminated, and the U.S. must cease its support of Israel in the United Nations.

Mehdi said he does not share the common Arab view that the U.S. is run by Zionists, explaining instead that Jews in this nation have managed to influence politicians because Arabs have not done their share to sell their views.

Urging Americans to write Nixon and ask him to drop U.S. support of Israel, Mehdi predicted the turnabout in U.S. policy will come by February. By then, he said, the nation will have had "a few months of suffering," and the people will demand an end to "helping Jews occupy Arab lands."

He also urged citizens to get more information on Arab views by writing the Arab League Office at the World Trade Center in San Francisco. "We try harder, since we're about number 56," he quipped.

The price of trying, however, has almost cost him his residency in the U.S., he said. Citing "Zionist pressure to silence the Arab voice in America," he had to survive two long court battles against deportation orders and finally has been allowed to apply for U.S. citizenship.

He seemed already halfway there — he drank Scotch during the interview while other guests were served arac, a potent anise liquor popular in the Mideast.

Dr. Ralph J. Weseman, longtime doctor in Novato and founder of the Novato Medical Center, died this morning at Novato General Hospital following a long illness.

Dr. Weseman, 67, retired only about a year ago following a career of 37 years in Novato, during which he did everything from delivering babies at home to tending injured ranch hands. He was known as one of the last of the disappearing breed of country doctors.

Last February, the Novato Medical Center was renamed in his honor.

He aided in the founding of Novato and Marin general hospitals and until his retirement was president of the board of directors of Novato General.

He was also a past president of the Marin County chapter of the California Medical Society.

He and his wife, Gladys, had been married for 41 years. Until his death, he resided at 851 Mahlstedt Park Place in Novato.

He was a member of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Novato.

Survivors include his wife; a daughter, Fern Redden of Corte Madera; his mother, Esther Weseman of Mountain View; three brothers, Arnold Weseman of Mountain View, Floyd Weseman of Palo Alto, and Dr. Chester Weseman of Berkeley; a sister, Marjorie Perkins of Mountain View and two granddaughters.

Food Drive Set For Delano Families

A food drive for Delano farm worker families is being conducted by the Associated Students of the College of Marin and the La Raza-Latino student organization.

Especially needed — the association has reported — are non-perishable foods such as canned milk, flour, rice and canned meats. Donations may be left at the student offices in the college's Student Center building, and the food will be delivered in a caravan Dec. 12.

SAVE GAS, GET A HORSE

Two hayburners stand amid the rows of unsold 1973 cars at Marin Bay Lincoln Mercury in San Rafael. Call For Special Welfare Session

Marin County supervisors yesterday called on the state Legislature to reconvene in special session to iron out welfare problems which are threatening severe cuts in welfare aid for thousands of Californians. (Another supervisor story, page 1.)

As it stands, the state has no legislation establishing its share of aid to blind, elderly or disabled persons after Jan. 1. In Marin alone, there are 2,100 recipients in the three categories.

United Press International today reported that the Reagan administration and key assemblymen have begun negotiations to resolve the problem.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, said the talks could lead to a special session, possibly next week, but Democrats, according to UPI, doubted the welfare controversy could be solved so quickly.

Acting Gov. Ed Reinecke said a special session would be called only if the administration and Democratic leaders show strong signs of reaching swift agreement, UPI reported.

Gov. Ronald Reagan had planned to set funding amounts through executive powers, thus skirting the Legislature, but his plan was ruled unconstitutional last week bu the courts.

Thus, many welfare recipients are assured only of a base $130-per-month allocation from the federal government after Jan. 1.

State and local "supplementary grants" currently add about $100 per month but beginning New Year's Day there is no authorization to continue these payments. Other programs, such as food stamps, are also threatened.

The board's action came as it deferred action on a request from local rest home operators that local aid be increased for their indigent patients.

Betty L. Presley, director of the health and human services department, recommended against any action, yesterday saying without legislation setting the state's share she would not recommend a dollar figure the county should consider.

The board did, however, urge legislators to lift restrictions on how much relatives of indigent patients may contribute for their care.

Gerhard Link, administrator of the San Rafael Rest Home, said rest homes are suffering growing deficits because rates have not been increased in three years despite spiraling inflation.

He said rest homes in Marin currently receive $230 and $251 per patient each month but actual costs average about $326 per patient.

Of the amount now paid, about $25 comes from county coffers.

Board Accepts Building Report

A grand jury report critical of the management and personnel at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building was accepted swiftly and without comment yesterday by Marin County supervisors.

After accepting the document, supervisors referred it to a special board committee to be reviewed along with other proposals for improving operation of the two-year-old auditorium.

The special committee — composed of supervisors Gary T. Giacomini and Robert A. Roumiguiere — is expected to make recommendations in early January.

The recommendation will deal with reduced rental rates, how to increase commercial and/or nonprofit use of the building and other matters that have stirred controversy since the building was opened in 1971.

The grand jury report criticized auditorium Mgr. Leon G. Kalimos for accomplishment that "fell far short of expectations" and his moonlighting outside the county as a theatrical consultant.

It recommended a board or commission be appointed to develop new policies for building operation and to oversee its future use.

In related action yesterday, the board voted 4-to-1 to authorize Kalimos to attend a convention in Las Vegas Dec. 3 to 6 to drum up business for the building.

Kalimos' four-day trip, expected to cost the county about $350, is to attend a convention of the International Association of Fair and Exhibition Showmen's League of America.

County Administrator John F. Barrows told the board the trip is aimed at finding convention users for the auditorium.

Giacomini voted against the trip saying the level of commercial use in the future is a matter under study and would not be resolved until January.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. countered that he felt the county must proceed as usual in finding commercial renters until the building's future use is decided.

Roumiguiere, meanwhile, said he would go along with the expense, but requested a report on the trip's success when Kalimos returns.

Moretti Sees Reagan As '76 GOP Nominee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan will be selected as Republican nominee for President in 1976, a leading California Democrat predicted yesterday.

Bob Moretti, Democratic leader of the California legislature, told a group of reporters that Reagan was not "another Goldwater" who would be an easy mark for the Democrats.

He said Reagan remained nationally formidable despite the recent defeat of a referendum on his proposal to place a ceiling on state and local taxes.

"I don't think it hurts his presidential campaign much at all," Moretti said. "He would have been a hero to the conservatives who control the Republican convention if he'd won. Now he's a martyr to them."

Moretti was a leader in opposition to the referendum.

County Has No Regulation To Halt Sidewalk Bicycle Riding

Everybody knows it's against the law to bicycle on county sidewalks, right?

Wrong, says Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, who claims California Highway Patrol officers have been in error when admonishing youngsters in the Kentfield area for the "crime."

Unfortunately, Maloney told county supervisors yesterday, when he informed the highway patrol of its wayward ways he was ignored.

Undaunted, the county counsel sought an opinion from the state Attorney General's office which agreed there is no state law outlawing bicycles on sidewalks, but rather the matter is up to the discretion of local officials.

Marin County has no regulation against two-wheelers on sidewalks.

Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

TRANSIT — Sitting as the Marin County Transit District board, unanimously reaffirmed its opposition to an underwater transit tube between Marin and San Francisco. A citizens' advisory committee to the Golden Gate corridor long-range transportation study has asked the federal Department of Transportation to finance a new study of such a tube. Transit directors said they oppose any such study.

HEARING — Rescheduled a hearing on the proposed building moratorium for San Pedro Ridge in Santa Venetia from Dec. 4 to Dec. 11. The rescheduling was caused by delays in properly advertising the hearing. Immediately after that hearing, a second hearing on development plans for a 256-unit townhouse development on the ridge is scheduled.

LEASE — Approved a new three-year lease with the Kentfield Fire District for office space at the Kentfield fire station. The space is used by the sheriff's department for a substation. The new lease increases rents from $80 per month to $120 per month. The county, "due to an oversight," failed to exercise an option which would have renewed the old lease for five years at the $80-per-month rate.

Prosecutor Of Agnew Views Public Trust

BALTIMORE (UPI) — George Beall, 36, the U.S. Attorney who led the investigation that forced Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as vice president, said yesterday that prosecutors have a responsibility to expose elected officials who violate the public trust.

Beall, the U.S. Attorney for Maryland since 1970, said in an address to a civic club luncheon that his office "is most mindful of the need for some sort of moral leadership on the part of public officials."

"Government is a reflection of the society which it represents," Beall said. "This system is viable. It is effective. It is some of the human beings who should look in the mirror and see if we can give (society) what it deserves."

Dutch Jet Hijackers Surrender

BEIRUT (UPI) — Three Palestinian guerrillas who hijacked a Dutch jumbo jet airliner last Sunday surrendered today in the Persian Gulf sheikhdom of Dubai, exhausted after an odyssey that took them thousands of miles around the Middle East. Their 11 hostages went free.

A spokesman for the Royal Dutch Airlines (KLM) said in Amsterdam "the jumbo jet hijacking has ended. The hijackers and crew have left the plane and are being taken to a hospital for medical check ups." A spokesman in Dubai confirmed the report.

The hijackers had demanded and received 3,000 gallons of fuel for the big 747 that has flown without maintenance over a four-day period and with a 10-man crew that has had no rest. But instead of taking off on another flight in search of refuge they turned themselves in after long negotiations with the leaders of Dubai.

The Dubai government issued the following statement on the surrender:

"At 6:45 p.m. (9:45 a,m. EST) the commandos, accompanied by their hostages came into Dubai airport terminal after the leader of the operation agreed to surrender. The Prime Minister, Sheikh Makhtoum Ben Rashid had given orders to all officials to treat all of them well.

"The commandos gave up their weapons and the explosives in their possession without any conditions or demands. The surrender operation was completed very easily due to the good intentions of all parties."

The airport spokesman said the Jumbo jet and its crew were expected to leave Dubai later tonight, probably for Beirut.

A Dubai Airport spokesman said the government had rejected the hijackers' demands for a new plane and passports.

AT&T Obeys Order In Seeking W. Marin Land For Facility

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. yesterday obeyed a Marin Superior Court order and filed a condemnation suit so it can build a $6.8 million facility in West Marin to receive messages relayed by space satellite.

The suit seeks to overturn an old deed restriction on a 240-acre parcel of the Soula Joule Ranch east of Tomales Bay.

The ranch's owner, Benjamin P. Bonelli, last week won an injunction from Judge David Menary Jr. blocking the relay station because the ranch is under deed covenant that bars any development of the land except for agriculture, residential or recreation uses. Menary also ruled, however, that the public good the station would serve outweighs the deed restriction, and ordered the utility firm to file an eminent domain action to topple the restriction.

AT&T's suit names Bonelli and almost 80 other individuals and firms as having some interest in the land sought, including Marin County and Jorgen V. Lunding, former San Rafael Planning Commission chairman.

The suit asks the court to determine a fair price for the land, and to set any damages that should be awarded to the owner for breaking the deed restriction.

Three More Enter Pleas In Burglary Ring Case

Three more members of the alleged Tiburon burglary ring arrested over the weekend by Tiburon and San Rafael police, yesterday pleaded innocent to charges of burglary and receiving stolen property.

Sherry Linda Munger, 22; her brother Dennis Jack Munger, 19, and David Wayne Sander, 19, will have preliminary hearings Dec. 4 on the felony charges, Marin Municipal Court Judge David R. Baty ordered.

The judge lowered bail from $50,000 to $2,500 for the fourth adult in the case, Oddie Eugene Jefferes, 28, of Petaluma, who earlier had pleaded innocent to a count of receiving stolen property. Baty refused, however to lower the $50,00 bail set for the Mungers, but set a hearing for tomorrow on releasing Sander on his own recognizance.

A 17-year-old boy from Texas, arrested along with Dennis Munger after a break-in at a San Rafael bowling alley early Saturday, is being processed in juvenile court.

Boost Suggested In Student Fees

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A state college trustees' committee recommends boosting student fees in the 19-campus system by the largest one-year margin ever.

The trustees' finance committee yesterday suggested a new schedule which would require full-time students taking 12 or more units to pay $144 a year, $26 more than now.

A spokesman said the boost is for instructional supplies and such services as health, counseling and financial aid administration.

Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke's staff told the finance committee the increase is needed because $40.7 million for materials and services is written into the 1974-75 budget with only $32.6 million expected from current fees.

Beltz Is Sued For Hotel Bills

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two Hawaii hotels yesterday sued Beltz Travel Service, Inc., for bills totaling $49,000 for rooms and services.

The Kona Hilton and the Hilton Hawaiian Village said in their Superior Court action that Beltz Travel left unpaid the charges for rooms, food and tour services on an open book account arrangement.

The travel agency, which closed its doors two weeks ago after a judgment over airline ticket sales practices, has grossed $10 million a year.

The Air Travel for $300,000 it said the agency owed for ticket sales. But Beltz filed a $30 million countersuit.

1,500 Pairs Of Eyeglasses Stolen

NAPA (UPI) — A thief stole 1,500 pairs of used eyeglasses from a front porch where they were being collected for shipment overseas, police reported today.

The eyeglasses, collected by local Lions Club groups, were on the front porch of the home of E. Harold Langdon when they disappeared Monday.

Fortune Left In Unknown Bank

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Heirs of Mrs. Ida McGovern were making an anxious search of files in area banks yesterday.

Mrs. McGovern left a sizable fortune in stocks, bonds, savings and property, said heir James Orum, and put part of it in a safe deposit box.

But Mrs. McGovern forgot to tell anyone where the box was, Orum said. Bank officials were cooperating in the search, he said.

Peace Talks Worsen In Mideast

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The deadlocked military talks between Israel and Egypt were postponed today until tomorrow following a general hardening of positions by both sides. Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan called the cease-fire ineffective and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat warned that new fighting could start at any minute.

In Algiers an Arab summit conference drew to a close with a fiery speech from Moroccan King Hassan II promising victory marches in the streets of Damascus and Cairo and prayers in an Arab Jerusalem. And there was a pledge to wield the oil weapon strongly to gain their objectives against Israel.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat told the summit conference yesterday that "the battle has not ended and the fighting could be resumed at any minute." He said the "military battle alone cannot resolve the situation" and called for Arab petroleum-producing nations to use their oil weapon to bring pressure on Israel's supporters.

Dayan said the Arabs were very much in favor of the projected peace conference that may be held in Geneva because they hope "in this forum to achieve an Israeli withdrawal from all the territories, a success they did not manage to score on the battlefield."

Brezhnev Letter Led To US Troop Alert

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leonid I. Brezhnev gave President Nixon what the Soviet leader called a "straight" notice Oct. 24 that the Russians might move on their own to enforce the then-shaky Mideast peace, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said it had obtained a copy of the Brezhnev letter to Nixon which was quickly followed by a presidential order placing US military forces on alert around the world.

The newspaper said Brezhnev referred to widespread Israeli violations of the Oct. 22 cease-fire and said they could not be allowed to continue.

It said the Soviet Communist Party chief told Nixon "I will say it straight" that if the United States would not join the Soviets in seeing that the cease-fire was observed, "we should be faced with the necessity urgently to consider the question of taking appropriate steps unilaterally."

The Post said it also obtained a paraphrased version of a strong Nixon response to Brezhnev, saying nothing that had happened in the Mideast warranted unilateral Soviet action and reminding Brezhnev the two nations had pledged to work together for peace.

The Post account said: "The President also expressed doubt about the validity of Soviet charges that the Israelis were continuing to violate the cease-fire. The Soviet suggestion of unilateral action, he said, was something that must undoubtedly cause great concern and carry consequences that cannot be predicted in advance."

Moscow subsequently accused Nixon of over-reacting and contended that no particular Soviet military action was taken to cause US officials to suspect a movement of troops to the Mideast.

Petaluma Girls Win Scholarships

Two Petaluma girls have won $700 scholarships at the national 4-H Congress being held in Chicago this week.

They are Debbie Kuck, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kuck of 4770 Bodega Avenue, Petaluma, and Janice Touchstone, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Touchstone of 1506 Bodega Avenue, Petaluma.

The girls were selected for their accomplishments in 4-H activities, leadership development, personal growth and civic responsibility.

Miss Kuck has made 269 garments during her nine years in the 4-H clothing project and was a finalist in the 1972 state dress review contest. Last year she taught a group of low-income women to sew. She is the organizer of a 4-H project to sew Christmas gifts for needy children and to make clothing for handicapped youths at Sonoma State Hospital. Her hospital project has been expanded to include Cotati and Rohnert Park.

Miss Touchstone is active in interior design and livestock projects. Last summer she remodeled a family bathroom from floor to ceiling, spending only $43.63. A seven-year 4-H member, Miss Touchstone also is active in sewing, public speaking and club leadership activities.

Miss Kuck's scholarship was donated by Coats and Clark, Inc., and Miss Touchstone's was provided by the S and H Foundation. Each of the two girls was one of six national winners in their respective categories.

Judge Won't Dismiss Hero's Drug Charges

An effort to kill drug charges against Petaluma war hero Richard Allen Penry failed yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Penry's attorney, Robert A. Mackey, argued that prejudicial newspaper publicity generated by police officers would prevent a fair trial.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon said a dismissal on those grounds must be decided by a superior court judge and not in municipal court in the matter.

Penry, 24, who holds the Congressional Medal of Honor, was arrested Oct. 24 at his Petaluma home on suspicion of selling cocaine and was described by police as a "major dealer" in the area.

Mackey said press releases prepared by the Sonoma County Sheriff's Department were aimed at obtaining publicity and contained "emotionally-charged and false facts" which have prejudiced the case.

Mackey said a change of venue would do his client no good since the news of his arrest was carried over a large area because of his war hero record.

"I submit that the unnecessary and illegal press releases do nothing but create a hardship for this individual," Mackey said, gesturing toward the bearded Penry. "There's only one remedy — to dismiss the case to show law enforcement officers that this will not be tolerated. Perhaps it will prevent injustice in the future."

When McMahon refused to dismiss the charges, Mackey requested that the courtroom be cleared.

Undercover narcotics agents who participated in the arrest were called to the stand and will continue their testimony at the hearing Friday at 9 a.m.

Welfare Fraud Hearing Is Set

A Novato couple will have a preliminary hearing on welfare fraud charges Dec. 18 in Marin Municipal Court.

Bennie Anderson Perry and Jessie Lee Perry yesterday pleaded innocent before Judge David R. Baty, to one count each of fraudulently receiving $1,716 in welfare payments during 1972 and 1973.

Petaluma Water Wells Approved

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors has reversed its stand and will allow well drilling to supply more water to Petaluma.

The board split 3-2 Monday to permit drilling the wells at Rohnert Park, but balked at the plan to sell them to that city when Petaluma no longer needs supplemental water.

Petaluma had requested the Sonoma County Water Agency drill two wells at Rohnert Park to supply an additional one million gallons of water per day until the Russian River Aqueduct is completed in several years.

Supervisors had criticized the plan in earlier sessions, saying the water table in the Rohnert Park area may be adversely affected if well drilling continues at a heavy pace.

Supervisor Philip L. Joerger of Petaluma urged approval, saying Petaluma residents should not be penalized because aqueduct construction is behind schedule. Petaluma officials had warned that residents would have to ration water during summer months if a supplemental supply was not granted.

Under the original plan, the wells would have been sold to Rohnert Park when no longer needed by Petaluma. The supervisors said, however, they intend to retain control of the wells since water supply might encourage a faster growth rate in Rohnert Park.

Supervisors Charles Hinkle of Santa Rosa and Robert Theiller of Sebastopol dissented in the vote, saying an environmental impact report should have been prepared first.

Project cost was estimated at $180,000 to $200,000.

The board also approved the sale of $2,185,000 in Petaluma High School District bonds to Dean Witter and Co. at the interest rate of 5 per cent. Funds will be used for additions to Rancho Cotate High School and Casa Grande Junior-Senior High School.

A Good Report On Pesticides

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — No harmful pesticide residues have been found on grocery produce sold in 26 Northern California counties, according to a special survey of stores in the region.

The state Food and Agriculture Department yesterday said its survey showed that only 16 out of 292 samples had detectable —but legal—amounts of pesticide residue. The remaining 276 samples were pesticidefree.

The samples of fresh fruit and vegetables were taken from 108 markets in 54 cities and towns in the north state.

Malkin Is Named Chief Of Sebastopol Police

Sausalito Police Capt. R. David Malkin will become police chief for the city of Sebastopol Dec. 1, City Mgr. Thomas P. McKenzie announced yesterday.

Malkin, 31, will leave his $16,608-a-year post with Sausalito Friday.

He was selected for the top job in the Sebastopol department from 68 applicants. Sausalito officials received confirmation of his appointment yesterday.

At 24, Malkin was one of the youngest police sergeants in Northern California when he was hired by Sausalito from the Fremont Police Department in 1967. He was promoted to captain in 1969.

He was a Fremont police patrolman from 1964 to 1967 and prior to that worked as an Alameda County Sheriff's deputy from 1963 to 1964.

In 1972, the Marin County Grand Jury recommended the firing of Malkin and the department's two other top administrators, Police Chief James D. Wright and Lt. William Fraas. The grand jury report charged the equivalent of a quota system of arrests existed in Sausalito.

McKenzie said an interdepartmental promotional examination will be given within the next two weeks to select Malkin's successor.

Landscaping For Square Backed

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night approved final landscaping plans for Courthouse Square, site of a mammoth office building and parking garage.

Commissioners did not make any significant changes in the landscaping plan proposed by the McKeon Construction Co. of Sacramento, although they did request that a garden wall be made of rock and not aggregate concrete.

The commission also told staff to decide whether redwood trees or other trees are appropriate along the Fifth Avenue side of the complex, according to associate planner James Louie.

The commission routinely approved plans for a fountain and drive-in windows, he said.

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

LUNDING — Commended Jorgen V. Lunding, former commission chairman fired by the city council, for his service on the agency, and asked that the city council meet jointly with the commission next month.

COUNTRY CLUB — Said the city will not change zoning of the country club area if the community is annexed to the city.

SIGNS — Put over consideration of 14 requests for sign variances to a special meeting at 8 p.m. Dec. 4.

ROUMIGUIERE — Put over to Dec. 11 consideration of a permit requested by county supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere for an office building at 1292 Lincoln Avenue.

AIRPORT — Set Dec. 11 for discussion of possible permit violation of Smith Ranch Airport.

MOBILE HOME — Approved a mobile home sales facility at Yosemite Road and Shenandoah Place, and approved design review of a mobile home park off Smith Ranch Road.

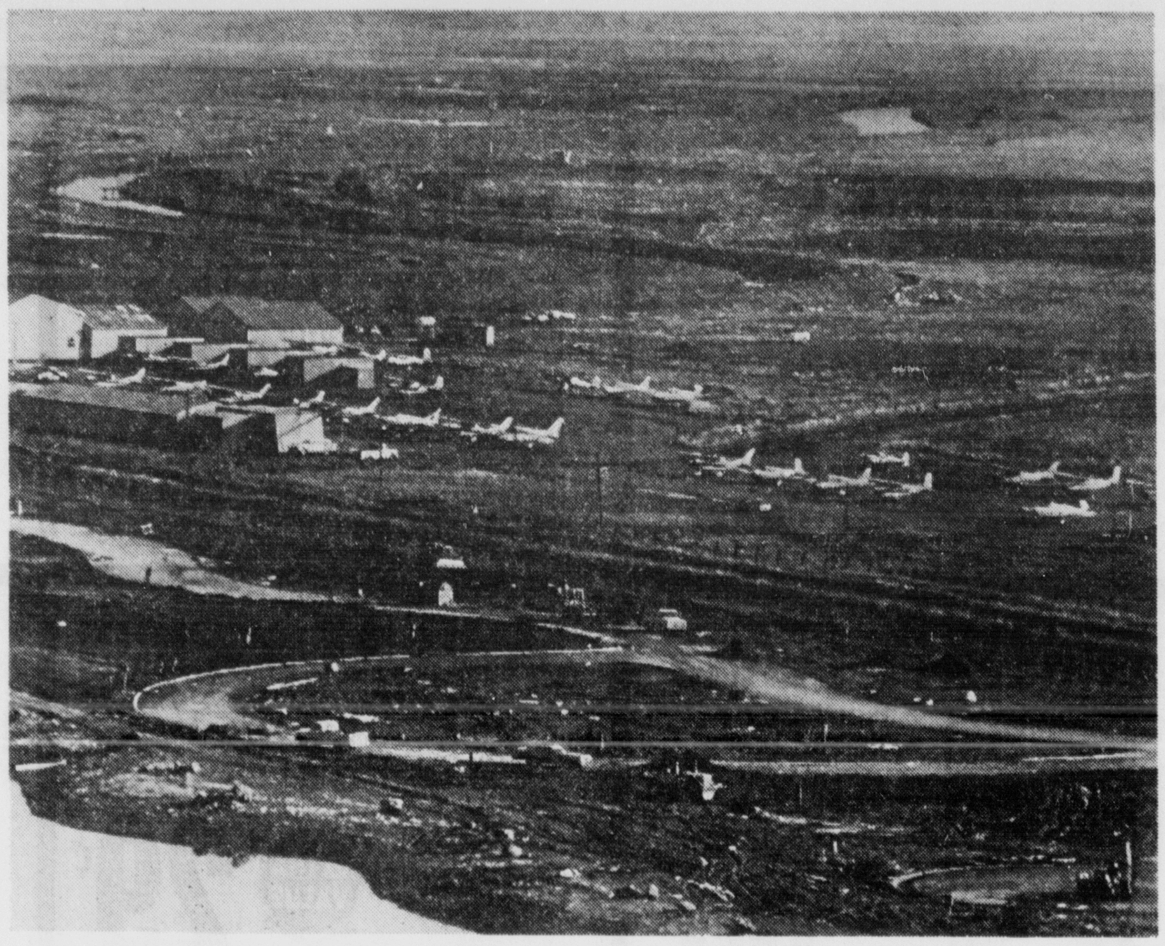
FENCE — Approved a nine-foot fence at 462 Hickory Lane.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Dec. 4.

GOP Committee Makes Appointments

The Marin County Republican Central Committee last night appointed William Benz, 605 Northern Avenue, Mill Valley, chairman of the party organization's resolutions committee, and Edward Lathrop, 49 San Luis Court, Novato, chairman of the credentials committee.

Maynard Briggs, 2233 Oak Knoll Road, Novato, resigned his positions as Fifth District Central Committee member and county precinct chairman because of a family illness, according to Bert D. Inman, chairman of the central committee.



AIRPLANE QUESTION — Private airplanes line Smith Ranch Airport in San Rafael, and more craft are hangared in the buildings that dot the facility. The San Rafael Planning Commission, learning last night that 48 airplanes were hangared at the facility Monday in violation of a permit which sets a 35-plane lid, postponed action on the matter until 7:30 p.m. Dec. 11.

Multiagency Proposed To Study Curfew Laws

The Marin County Juvenile Justice Commission yesterday suggested a multiagency fact finding committee be established to investigate local curfew law enforcement.

According to commissioner Edward J. Neumeier, the fact finding committee will be open to representatives from all agencies dealing with youths such as the probation department and youth commission.

The commission's probe into curfew laws was prompted last month when a mother complained her children were harassed by sheriff's deputies using the county curfew law.

Charles Newman, juvenile officer for the Corte Madera Police Department and a member of the county's juvenile delinquency prevention commission, told the justice commission he opposed doing away with curfew regulations.

If they are being abused by some police departments, he said, the abuse should be attacked but not the law.

Commissioners agreed to form the special committee to study not only various curfew ordinances now in effect in Marin but also how they are being enforced, Neumeier reported.

JILL VOLLNER
Victim of burglars

Watergate Attorney's Home Looted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The home of Jill Volner, an assistant special Watergate prosecutor, was burglarized yesterday while she was in court questioning President Nixon's personal secretary about a gap in one of the Watergate tapes.

Police said today that Mrs. Volner returned home yesterday evening and found her apartment ransacked.

She told police the burglars took four boxes of canceled checks, clothing and a key to a safety deposit box in New York.

Police said they had no suspects in the case and a spokesman said, "It's just a routine burglary at this point."

The burglars forced their way into the apartment in Northwest Washington through a screen enclosure, police said.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Campaign Spending Bill Passes Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has passed a far-reaching reform of campaign laws, a bill to outlaw private contributions to congressional or presidential candidates.

Under the bill, bona fide candidates would automatically receive payments from the US Treasury to finance their election races.

A candidate for a House seat would get $90,000, for a Senate seat $175,000 and for the Presidency $21 million—less than half of what the Committee to Re-elect the President reports spending on President Nixon's behalf in 1972.

The idea of financing campaigns from tax funds to reduce the influence of big donors has been advocated by figures ranging from Theodore Roosevelt to Spiro T. Agnew.

But major obstacles remain in the bill's path and it appears to have less than an even chance of becoming law.

The measure was attached as a rider to a bill raising the statutory ceiling on the national debt. The existing ceiling expires at midnight Friday.

The debt ceiling bill now goes from the Senate, where it won final approval on a 57-34 rollcall, to a House-Senate conference committee.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., who will lead House members in the conference, says he opposes riders which have not had full House committee and floor consideration. There is also the prospect of a presidential veto.

Privately, some members of Congress said they feared becoming vulnerable to attack for voting "to finance their own campaigns from tax dollars." Others were said to oppose financing potential opponents.

The bill would not become effective until 1976. Candidates in primaries for House and Senate seats would still depend on private donors to finance their races.

The bill allows taxpayers to designate on their tax form that they want to earmark $2 of their income taxes ($4 for a joint return) for the support of political candidates.

Hospital Will Seek Coordinator

Marin Hospital District directors yesterday agreed to seek bids for a coordinator for the hospital's emergency room.

The physician chosen, who must be a member of the hospital medical staff, will guarantee that staff physicians will be available in emergency 24 hours a day, seven days a week, according to Ray K. Bolinger, hospital administrator.

The coordinator and the doctors working with him will charge emergency patients for treatment. The hospital will do the billing and collecting and be reimbursed for its expense, he said.

Bolinger said the new program will strengthen the emergency room staff.

The coordinator system of emergency room operation is in accordance with guidelines established by the California Medical and Hospital associations, he said.

The Marin Hospital District board also:

CLAIM — Rejected and referred ot its insurance carrier a $5 million claim from Arlene Jacobs, 21, of 31 Reed Boulevard, Mill Valley. Miss Jacobs, who was hospitalized in July and August for a neck infection, has charged the hospital with "negligent treatment," resulting in permanent and total disability.

CONSULTANTS — Asked the structural engineering firm of Pregnoff, Matheu and Beede to determine how well the hospital would stand up to an earthquake. The study will cost a maximum of $10,000, according to Bolinger.

CONSERVATION — Approved a plan to save energy by cutting down on lighting in some areas of the hospital, including lobbies, storeroom and lounges and restrooms when they are not in use. Bolinger said air conditioning and heating will be cut back in nonpatient areas and Christmas lighting will be limited to the pediatrics ward. Employees are being encouraged to use car pools and to get to work and use the stairs, rather than elevators, for short trips between floors.

DATA PROCESSING — Agreed to install a data processing system in the hospital's financial department at a cost of $2,700 a month. Bolinger said the new system will not cost more than the current one, since it will require approximately three and a half fewer employees than the department currently has.

RETIREMENT — Deferred, for one year, the retirement of Ilona Bellak, assistant director of nursing.

KIDNEY TREATMENT — Was told by its long range planning committee that Marin needs a treatment center for chronic kidney patients who require dialysis. If the center — which would be separate from the hospital — is built, the board said Marin General would provide hospital care for center patients who may need it.

MEETING — Set its next meeting for 2 p.m. Dec. 28.

Has To Mop Up

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Jere Beasley knocked over a pitcher of water the final day of the Alabama legislature's 1973 regular session and had to stop the Senate so he could mop up his desk. He serves as the senate's presiding officer.

Man Faces Charges In Fracas

Only misdemeanor charges were filed against a Fairfax man arrested in Novato Friday night after a fracas with two off-duty Mill Valley policemen.

Robert Louis Lombardi, 18, pleaded innocent to counts of assault and battery, and was ordered to report for a pretrial conference Dec. 5, when he appeared before Marin Municipal Court Judge David R. Baty on Monday.

Baty ordered the $5,000 bail originally set for Lombardi reduced to $1,500. Lombardi posted bail and was released yesterday from Marin County Jail.

Novato police has booked him on suspicion of felony assault with a deadly weapon, assault, and resisting arrest.

Novato police reported that Lombardi and Officers Daniel C. Murphy and Robert G. Ritter of Mill Valley became involved in a fight outside a Grant Avenue pool hall. Witnesses gave conflicting versions of how Murphy's gun was either drawn by the officer or snatched by someone else, and other details of the encounter.

Eagle Scout Award Due On Monday

Charles R. Nelson of Troop 38, San Rafael, will receive the Eagle Scout award in a court of honor at 8 p.m. Monday at the Saint Luke Presbyterian Church, 10 Bayview Drive, San Rafael.

Nelson, 14, is a freshman at the St. Mary's College High School in Berkeley, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nelson of 23 McNear Drive, San Rafael.

A scout for more than five years, Nelson first joined the Cubs in San Rafael. He has served his troop as senior patrol leader and is a member of the Order of the Arrow. He holds 27 merit badges, the mile swim award and the 50-mile hike badge.

Nelson is also a member of the Marin Aquatic Club, where he has been active more than three years.

For his eagle project, Nelson constructed and painted settee furniture for Children's Hospital of the East Bay.

Conversion Of Hospital Is Rejected

SAN FRANCISCO — The Canyon Manor Convalescent Hospital in Novato will not be allowed to become a mental hospital, the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council decided last night.

Sheila Alexander, assistant to the director of the Marin Comprehensive Health Planning Council, said that the Bay Area council agreed with the Marin council's recommendation earlier this month that the hospital's request to convert be denied.

The hospital at 655 Canyon Road now has 62 skilled nursing beds for convalescent patients and 18 for alcoholic patients. Its application was for 80 beds for long-term mental patients.

When the Marin Council denied the application, it said that it was not clear whether a mental care facility of this size was needed.

The Bay Area council agreed, however, that the hospital can reapply for conversion and that a reapplication fee be waived.

FANTASTIC DISCOUNTS EVERYDAY

FAIREST PRICES!

EVERYDAY LOW PRICES!

NEIGHBORLY DISCOUNTS!

Don't be misled.

It's easy enough to be confused by the Pied Piper Parade of supermarket advertising these days. Too easy! "Fairest Prices!" "Everyday Low Prices!" "Neighborly Discounts!" You've heard 'em all. It would almost be funny if the money you spend on food weren't such a serious matter. So, for those of you who are as tired of the ballyhoo as Alpha Beta is, let's set the record straight.

The fact of the matter

Supermarket food ads don't always tell the whole story. Sometimes other food stores advertise certain individual prices even lower than Alpha Beta's. Naturally the market is putting its lowest-price foot forward. We know that. But, please, for saving's sake—do remember that most ads represent only a hundred or so items...while the average market carries over nine thousand items! And it's here, on the great majority of your purchases, that you'll see just how Alpha Beta can save you money.

Why our price is right

Alpha Beta knows more about discount pricing than just about anybody in the business. We've been at it longer than most, for one thing. But that's not the only reason. We're considered industry leaders insofar as discounting know-how is concerned. We're unique in our ability to keep quality, service, selection and in-store cleanliness up—while we keep our prices consistently down.

The total picture

"Total Discounts" isn't simply a phrase at Alpha Beta. It's a commitment. What it means is that we can effect a consistency of savings for our customers that you won't find elsewhere. We have money-saving prices up one aisle and down another. Not just on certain items or on certain days. But on every possible item, every single day. You'll find that, thanks to Alpha Beta's overall prices, you don't have to pay the piper.

Savings on the double too

Alpha Beta leads the way, too, in our "Double Discount" policy. Double Discounts refer to prices that are below even everyday discount prices. They're made possible by temporary manufacturer discounts we receive. Now the fact is, all markets offer you some temporary price reductions. But Alpha Beta alone offers you so many. Often up to hundreds more than you'll find anywhere else. Next time you're in an Alpha Beta, look around. You'll see bright blue Double Discount signs just about everywhere you look. Each one of them representing a substantial savings.

The proof's in your food bill

When all is said and done, it's a lower total food bill you want. And that's what Alpha Beta can deliver. If you think this is merely another claim, do yourself a favor. Compare. Compare your total at Alpha Beta with your total at any other market. You'll see why we say wherever you're shopping now...you'll like the total better at Alpha Beta.

LIFT BAN — Roughly 300 acres (in hatched area) owned by the George P. Leonard family, were exempted yesterday from a ban on septic tanks in Stinson Beach. Leonard had objected the ban could lower the appraised value of his land, which is due for purchase by the federal government.

Stinson Beach Septic Tank Ban Is Removed

I-J Special Report

HAYWARD — A ban on new septic tanks in Stinson Beach was lifted yesterday from some 300 acres so the major property owner will not lose money when the federal government includes his land in the Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

The unanimous action by the Regional Water Quality Control Board in effect rescinded the board's own Sept. 25 vote to ban new septic tanks throughout the Stinson Beach County Water District. Yesterday's action did not lift the ban on the rest of the community.

Land owner George P. Leonard asked for the action. He and his family own the 300 acres, except for a few small parcels. He said the staffs of both the regional board and its parent agency, the State Water Resources Control Board, had been "most cooperative with me" in recommending lifting the ban on his property.

The board's resolution declared that including the 300 acres in the ban "may work an unintended hardship on their owner by lowering their appraised value when being acquired by the federal government." The staff of the regional board said Leonard's holdings probably will be bought by the government within a year.

Since it thus is not subject to development, there is no need to include his land within the septic tank freeze, the staff said.

Board member Homer Hyde was the only commissioner who commented on the matter, observing quietly that "it would save the taxpayers money" if the ban were not lifted.

Leonard noted that only 1.5 acres of the 2,200 acres he owned in and around Stinson Beach, have been sold for development. He said he gave and sold more than 1,600 acres to the state for addition to Mount Tamalpais State Park.

He declined to speculate on the value of his land, but pointed to his recent sale of a half-acre for $15,000.

Leonard told newsmen he did not feel the ban had affected the appraised value of his land, but said he was "fearful of what an appraiser may do" when its value is checked by the federal government.

The regional board's action will require ratification by the state board, probably at its Dec. 20 meeting in Sacramento.

The board also issued technical standards for a sewage treatment system planned by the Stinson Beach County Water District. The system will serve a population of 2,700, compared to the present population of about 1,200, according to the staff.

Woman Held In Petaluma Slaying Dies

The San Francisco woman accused of the murder of a Petaluma man died yesterday at a Santa Rosa hospital.

Olga Alexis Liubinsky, 43, was shot in the head by the wife of James Powers, 38, after Mrs. Liubinsky on Saturday barged into the home on Pauline Way and killed Powers.

Sonoma County Dist. Atty. John W. Hawkes said he is studying police reports and will decide tomorrow if Barbara Powers, 35, will be charged with anything.

Mrs. Liubinsky had been booked in absentia into the Petaluma jail on suspicion of first degree murder.

Renaming Of Park Proposed

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission last night recommended that the city name a minipark at Claus Circle for former mayor Frank Lawrence, who died recently.

The park currently has no name, according to the town administration.

The town council will consider the recommendation at 8 p.m. Dec. 10.

Larkspur Man Enters Drug Plea

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Larkspur man has pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to a more than 2-year-old drug charge stemming from a sale of LSD in San Rafael.

Bradley Harris Saichek, 26, who also uses the name of Christopher William Richards, is to be sentenced Jan. 10 by Judge William T. Sweigert.

Saichek pleaded guilty Monday to a reduced charge of conspiracy to sell LSD. He earlier had been charged both with sale and conspiracy.

Saichek originally had been arrested in 1971 under the name of Richards. He was listed as a fugitive for more than two years after he failed to appear in district court in June 1971, but was rearrested last August by Larkspur police who went to his residence to pick up a juvenile.

San Rafael School Board Will Keep Present Policy On Holidays

The San Rafael Board of Education last night refused to make any change in the board's policy for high school and elementary district employees who want to take time off for religious holidays.

Although the board was told that about 50 per cent of the school districts in the Bay Area do grant employees such holidays, the board decided to continue its present policy.

Dr. Donald E. Leisey, schools superintendent, said that employees may take "personal necessity leave" on religious holidays, but that any time off is deducted from their annual 10 days' sick leave.

The decision came after requests from two employees that they be given time off for holidays other than the traditional Christian ones, according to Leisey.

In other action last night, the board "enthusiastically endorsed" plans for student participation in San Rafael's centennial celebration next year, Leisey said.

The board also decided to hold one meeting a month in various elemetnary schools in the district. The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 18 at Bahia Vista School.

The San Rafael Board of Education Also:

MUSIC — Agreed to hire a part-time music teacher and four paraprofessionals to carry out classroom music programs in the elementary schools for the rest of the year. The regular music teacher, Margaret Renna, is on disability leave.

CREDIT — Asked administrators at Terra Linda High School to work with physical education teachers on a plan to grant credit for such regular outside activities as ice skating at the request of a parent.

COURSES — Approved new adult education courses for the winter quarter including weather, parent education and driver education.

MEMBERSHIP — Voted to spend $100 to join the Marin County Industrial-Education Council for the coming year.

APPOINTMENTS — Hired Val Brakes as home instructor in the high school district at $8 an hour; Alexandra David and Carol Horobin as instructional aides in the elementary district, each at $2.86 an hour.

STAFF — Granted leaves to Ella Earl, instructional aide at Bahia Vista School, and to Beverly Roy, home economics teacher at San Rafael High School. The board also accepted the resignations of Peter Kavantjas, custodian, and Liesel Neheimer, instructional aide.

Kennedy Equipment

DALLAS (UPI) — The equipment used in the attempt to save President John F. Kennedy's life was purchased for $1,000 by the General Services Administration and shipped to the National Archives. The money was collected through donations.

Novato Council Rezones Land To Conform To Plan

Devoting the evening entirely to zoning matters, the Novato City Council last night rezoned many parcels, individually and in groups, to make them consistent with the new master plan.

The council prezoned 10 acres belonging to the Novato Unified School District on Mill Road west of Trumbull Avenue to limited agriculture. Four adjacent acres belonging to Jean Struck were prezoned to single-family residential with 10,000-square-foot minimum lots, as were approximately 15 acres at Wilson Avenue and Center Road, including the Paladini property.

Approximately five acres at the northeast corner of San Marin Drive and San Andreas Drive were changed from planned commercial to administrative-professional zone for Walter Zahrenko.

Zoning on six areas was changed to make the zoning consistent with the Novato Master Plan:

1. The area from Marion Avenue north to San Marin Drive from Simmons Lane to Seventh Street from limited agriculture to single-family residential on 19 parcels in the area.

2. Approximately 40 acres from the Novato city limits north to Atherton Avenue east of Bugeia Lane from limited agriculture to single-family residential.

4. Reservoir Hill east of the freeway bypass at the DeLong interchange from planned residential to single-family planned residential district.

5. Both sides of Indian Valley Road from Hill Junior High School south to the Novato city limits, containing 15 parcels of land, from limited agriculture to planned single-family residential.

6. Approximately 100 acres at the end of Kaden Drive, Shevlin Road from Sunset Parkway South to San Jose Creek east of Indian Valley Colleges and Ignacio Boulevard, containing seven parcels, from limited agriculture to single-family planned residential.

Hearing Slated On Two Charges

Preliminary hearing will be held Dec. 6 in Marin Municipal Court on burglary and auto theft counts against Alvis Donald Lee, 27, of San Francisco.

Lee pleaded innocent to the charge yesterday before Judge David R. Baty. The judge denied a motion to release Lee on his own recognizance; he is in custody in lieu of posting $20,000 bail.

Lee was arrested Nov. 21 in a Sausalito home when police responded to a silent burglar alarm.

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's Ministry of Posts and Telecommunications recently promulgated a new set of regulations controlling electrical emissions from the ignition systems of cars and trucks to prevent interference with television pictures.

OFF RUNWAY - This Eastern Airlines DC9 jetliner skidded off the runway and down an embankment at the Akron-Canton, Ohio, Airport yesterday, injuring 16 of the 26 persons aboard. It was one of two such accidents yesterday. (UPI Telephoto)

No Deaths In Two Runway Accidents

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Commercial DC9 jetliners crashed during separate foul-weather landings in Chattanooga, Tenn., and Akron, Ohio, yesterday, but there were no deaths. Thirty-six persons were injured, one seriously.

An Atlanta-to-Chicago Delta Airlines jet carrying 77 persons burst into flames last night after crashing while trying to land in a thunderstorm at Chattanooga.

Everyone aboard walked off the craft, but the pilot, Capt. Ralph Hackley of Boston, and a passenger were hospitalized with back injuries. Eight other persons, including two stewardesses, were treated for minor injuries and released.

An Eastern Airlines DC9, landing during a light rain at the Arkon-Canton Airport, crashed when it was unable to stop and rolled off the end of the runway, injuring all 26 persons aboard.

Sixteen persons, including the pilot and co-pilot, were admitted to six Akron area hospitals, all but one in satisfactory or fair condition. Olga Holley, 66, Holly Hills, Fla., was placed in the intensive care unit of Barberton Citizens Hospital.

John Stacy, 28, Dallas, a passenger aboard the Delta jetliner said, "It all happened so fast. There wasn't any panic until we came to a stop and then people started screaming, which is to be expected."

The airliner, flight 516 from Atlanta to Chicago with a stopover in Chattanooga, circled Lovell Field for about 15 minutes before trying an instrument landing in the violent thunderstorm.

"On approach, everything was normal but I heard a thump when it hit the runway," Stacy said. "It hit the runway, tilted over and the left wing was knocked off, and it bounced back up.

"It slid on the fuselage and came to a stop off the runway at about a 45-degree angle," Stacy said.

Eastern officials in Miami said their flight 300 was enroute from Miami to the Akron-Canton airport via Pittsburgh and landed with visilibity of about a mile and one-half with a 200-foot cloud ceiling.

Gary Fouts, 24, Greensburg, who lives near the airport, was one of the first to the accident.

"I grabbed my car and shot on down to see what happened," he said after hearing a "very loud thump—like two cars crashing."

"When I got there, I saw the plane in a depression at the end of the runway with the tail split off and a large yellow raft inflated near one of the doors," Fouts said. "I guess it was accidentally blown up.

"People were moaning and I helped pull about four of them from the plane before more emergency workers arrived," he said. "It was a mess."

'LITTLE' DINNER parties at home may be elegant and very simple. This features a main course of salmon divan — chunks of salmon topped with a delicate sauce and resting on a bed of broccoli. It is baked for 15 minutes in individual casseroles in a pre-heated hot oven while guests have the consomme first course.

Try Salmon On Dinner Guests Next

The holiday weeks ahead are a good time to plan a small dinner party in which informal entertaining combines simplicity with elegance.

This kind of little dinner leaves the host and hostess relaxed to greet friends and join in the conversational group.

One such dinner might begin, perhaps, with a cup of clear consomme garnished with chopped celery leaves and parsley and accompanied by a crisp cheese stick. This is just one kind of first course that needs no last minute attention.

Refrigerator desserts are also a boon to the cook. So, too, is this recipe for salmon divan; it may be completely prepared in advance, ready to be reheated in a hot oven while the consomme is being served.

Because such a meal is so easy, it gives you time to bring out your best china, silver and glassware. Serve the salmon divan with hot crusty rolls and a sparkling glass of chilled white wine.

SALMON DIVAN

2 10-ounce packages frozen broccoli spears
Salt
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
Dash white pepper
1 cup milk
½ cup cream
1 tablespoon dry sherry
1 1-pound can salmon or two 7¾ ounce cans
4 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
4 tablespoons dry bread crumbs.

Cook broccoli in small amount of boiling salted water as directed on package. Drain and arrange spears in individual shallow baking dishes.

In saucepan melt butter and

Some Special Breads For Holiday Season

Recipe collectors among the members of the San Rafael Guild of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science are sharing some of their holiday bread finds with readers.

They include four breads — banana nut, carrot, cranberry nut and pumpkin — which the guild will offer at the Marin Festival of Trees presented by the museum guilds Friday and Saturday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The recipes are supplied by Mmes. Jock Miller, Michael Mertz and James Mayer, and the cranberry bread is a find of Dodie Mertz, who collects cookbooks.

BANANA NUT BREAD

2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup sugar
⅓ cup melted shortening
4 crushed bananas
1 tsp. soda
1 tbsp. warm water
2 cups sifted flour
½ cup chopped nuts

Add sugar to beaten eggs gradually. Add melted shortening to mixture. Dissolve soda in tablespoon warm water and mix bananas and soda into mixture. Add flour and nuts. Pour batter into four small loaf pans until three-quarters full. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

CARROT BREAD

2 cups finely grated carrots
2 cups flour
2 tsp. soda
2 tsp. cinnamon
½ cup chopped nuts
1 cup oil
2 tsp. vanilla
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs
½ cup coconut
½ cup raisins

Combine all ingredients in bowl and mix well. (For a shortcut use the blender to mix the oil and 6 medium carrots). Make four small loaves and bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

CRANBERRY NUT BREAD

2 cups flour
1 cup sugar
1½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt
¼ cup butter
½ cup chopped nuts
1 cup cranberries coarsely chopped
¾ cup orange juice
1 tbsp. grated orange rind
1 egg well beaten

Shortcut: combine orange juice and cranberries in blender and whirl quickly.

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt. Cut in butter. Add nuts and cranberries. Combine orange juice, rind and egg. Pour all into mixture and stir until just blended.

Pour into three small well-greased loaf pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

PUMPKIN BREAD

2 cups pumpkin
½ cup butter or shortening
2 cups sugar
1½ cups flour
2 tsp. soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. clove
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup walnuts
1 cup bleached raisins

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Grease bottom only of three loaf pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes.

Note: one-and-a-half times this recipe will use a large can of pumpkin.

All breads listed may be made and frozen.

GROUP'S SPECIALTY

Stone Ground Flour Breads

Whether you grind your own, as do the women of the Women's Relief Society of the San Rafael Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, or buy it, stone ground flour makes up into some delicious breads.

To save cooking fuel, several loaves can be baked at the same time.

The Relief Society women have been busy baking for the justly-famous annual Cookie Carnival to be held Saturday at the church on Bon Air Road in Greenbrae, and they share the recipes for the stone-ground flour breads they'll offer:

FOOLPROOF STONE-GROUND WHEAT BREAD

2 Tablespoons yeast in ½ cup warm water.
2 cups hot water from tap.
7 cups unsifted stone-ground wheat flour.
⅔ cups honey (or molasses, or ⅓ cup each)
⅔ cup cooking oil
2 Tablespoons salt
5 - 6 cups more stone-ground wheat flour.

Sprinkle yeast in one-half cup warm water. Do not stir. Combine five cups hot tap water and seven cups flour and mix on low speed. Combine oil, salt and honey (or molasses) in a separate bowl, then add to mixing bowl and continue to mix until everything is well blended. Add yeast to ingredients in mixer and blend thoroughly.

Then add the five to six cups more flour and knead for 10 minutes. Grease four bread pans and oil your hands and the counter.

Divide dough into four equal parts. The dough will be a little sticky, but will easily form into loaves by shaping on the oiled counter and drawing in four ways to center of dough to form loaf.

Place in pan with folded side to bottom of pan. Place in warm place to rise — it should not rise more than one-third in bulk.

Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. When bread is baked, remove immediately from the pans. For a softer crust, brush tops of loaves with oil or butter. Cover with a kitchen towel to cool.

Variation with basic dough recipe:

SWEET ROLLS

Pat out desired amount of basic bread recipe to one-half inch thickness. Sprinkle with cinnamon, sugar, raisins and nuts — roll up and slice off about one inch thick. Place in muffin tins or pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Add glaze to top, if desired.

MUFFINS WITH STONE-GROUND FLOUR

Put the following ingredients into mixer and mix thoroughly:
1 cup white flour (sifted)
1 cup stone-ground wheat flour
½ tsp. salt
4 tsp. baking powder
½ cup brown sugar - and add:
1 cup milk
2 beaten eggs
⅓ cup cooking oil
½ cup nuts or sprouted wheat.

Bake in greased muffin tins at 425 degrees for 15 minutes. Yield 18 muffins.

PEANUT BUTTER OATMEAL AND STONE-GROUND WHEAT COOKIES

1½ cup peanut butter
¾ cup butter
¾ cup shortening
3¾ cups firmly packed brown sugar
3 eggs
3 tsp. vanilla
3 cups stone-ground wheat flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1½ tsp salt
3 cups rolled oats

Yield: 12 dozen.

Homemade Chutney Is Ideal Gift

If you want to be remembered long after your visit, give your hostess a "bread and butter" gift of a bottle of your very own chutney.

TANGERINE APRICOT CHUTNEY
(makes seven cups)

3 or 4 tangerines (approx. 2½ cups)
1 pound dried apricots, chopped
1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
1⅓ cups chopped onion
½ cup golden raisins
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon coriander seeds, crushed
½ cup white vinegar
⅓ cup fresh squeezed lemon juice

With sharp knife, score tangerines into quarters and carefully remove peel. Cut peel into strips, two inches by quarter-inch. Place in sauce pan and cover with water. Bring to a boil, lower heat and simmer uncovered for 10 minutes. Drain and rinse well.

Place chopped apricots in a medium bowl; cover with three cups boiling water. Let set for 10 minutes. Drain and rinse. Chop tangerine segments into pieces. In a large sauce pan combine peel, chopped tangerines, apricots and remaining ingredients. Bring to boil and simmer gently until soft and thick, about one and a quarter to one and a half hours. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.

Cheese, Apples Fine For Dinner

In the true continental tradition of serving fruit and cheese at the end of the meal, form a bright red blossom with a ball of baby gouda cheese and a large red apple.

APPLE-CHEESE BLOSSOM

1 baby gouda cheese
1 large unpeeled red apple, cored

Cut cheese into eight wedges; fan out on plate to look like flower petals. Cut cored apple into wedges and place between cheese petals. Center with a sprig of mint or parsley.

Makes eight appetizer servings or dessert with coffee.

Tips For Midweek Company

If you're one of today's working women who spend 35 to 40 hours a week at the office, you may often find yourself hurrying home to entertain guests on a week night.

How do you do it? With a few trusty recipes for make-ahead dishes, and some intelligent planning, you needn't sacrifice your social life for the job.

Here are some tips for alleviating last-minute panic:

Have party clothes ready to jump into. Don't waste time wondering what to wear.

Have menu and time-schedule on hand to help organize work.

Do as much advance preparation of food as possible. Wash greens, celery, etc. and refrigerate in plastic bags the morning of party. Assemble knives, measuring cups, spoons beforehand.

Organize your table accessories. Be sure you have correctly-sized serving dishes and a server for each food.

Select recipes that are easy to prepare, and which need little last-minute tending. This one for company meat balls can stretch your food dollar. Serve it with flair and you'll find it can be quite elegant, too:

COMPANY MEAT BALLS
(Serves Six)

- 2 pounds ground lean beef
- 2 eggs
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 4 slices bread, soaked in water and wrung dry
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, chopped
- Flour
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed beef broth
- 1 cup cranberry juice cocktail
- 4 cups hot cooked rice
- ¼ cup margarine or butter
- Coarsely shredded rind of 1 small orange
- ⅛ teaspoon ground cloves
- Parsley

Mix together ground beef, eggs, salt, pepper, bread, onion and garlic. Shape mixture into one-inch balls; roll in flour. Brown meat balls in hot butter. Add beef broth and cranberry juice. Cook, uncovered, stirring occasionally for 20 minutes or until meat balls are cooked and sauce is thickened. Combine rice, margarine, orange rind and cloves. Spoon rice onto a platter. Top with meat balls and gravy. Garnish with parsley.

How To Save Fuel In The Kitchen

With the nation facing an energy crisis, these tips are being offered by the Committee on Consumer Affairs of the American Petroleum Institute to conserve fuel in the kitchen.

Plan oven meals. A complete meal can be cooked in the oven as economically as one food item. Remember to turn the oven off as soon as you remove the food.

Match pots and pans to size of burners. A pot that's too small for a burner will allow extra heat to escape. Use pans with flat bottoms for close contact with surface unit.

Prepare double recipes for meals like spaghetti sauce, soups and stews that take a long time to cook. Then freeze for future use.

Avoid oven-peeping. Use cooking aids such as a meat thermometer and time and temperature chart to save fuel. Make sure oven door seal is tight and not leaking heated air.

Cover saucepans whenever possible. Food will cook faster and you can reduce temperature settings. Be sure pans have tight-fitting lids.

When cooking on a surface burner, a high flame is seldom required for long. Use a low one when it will do as well.

Don't take forever to preheat oven. Generally only 10 minutes is needed. For most dishes, except for baking, there's no need to preheat at all.

Make sure the pilot on your gas range is properly adjusted. It could be using more fuel than it needs to.

Put your pots and pans on the range before the heat is turned on so you won't waste heat.

When possible, use your oven in place of your stove surface units since less heat is lost in confined areas.

Thaw frozen foods before cooking when practical.

By using glass or ceramic pots and pans on a conventional range, you may be able to lower the heat by 25 degrees without sacrificing cooking efficiency.

Use the minimum amount of water when cooking so it can heat quickly.

Toasters, waffle irons, skillets, grills, popcorn poppers, fondue pots and bean pots use less energy for their specialized jobs than does a range, so use the smaller appliances instead whenever possible.

stir in flour, salt and pepper. Gradually add milk and cook, stirring, until sauce is smooth and thickened. Stir in cream and sherry and the liquid from can of salmon.

Flake salmon and separate into large chunks. Arrange on top of the broccoli and pour the sauce over the top. Sprinkle with a mixture of the cheese and crumbs. Bake in a preheated 450 degree oven for 15 minutes. Serves four.

Bell Peppers Can Provide Good Entree

Fresh bell peppers remain abundant. Use them often while they are in good supply, advises the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

When shopping, look for peppers with a glossy sheen and firm, thick fleshed walls. Color should be a bright green or red. Avoid peppers that are shriveled, soft or dull in color. Store in the refrigerator in the crisper bin or in a plastic bag, and use within three to five days. Try this recipe using bell peppers as a delicious entree.

GREEN PEPPERS AND EGGS, ITALIAN STYLE

- 2 large fresh green peppers
- 2 tablespoons olive or salad oil
- 1 clove fresh garlic, split
- 6 eggs

- ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper

Problems, Rewards Of City Service Outlined By Women

By BETTY FROST

"Having a good track record in a lot of small jobs for your community is good preparation for public office," said Julie Osterloh, Ross councilman.

Mrs. Osterloh, Mayors Robin Sweeney of Sausalito, Jean Barnard of Mill Valley, and councilmen Joan Sestak of Larkspur and Sally Stanford of Sausalito, discussed their roles as women elected to public office at a meeting of the Mill Valley area branch of the American Association of University Women yesterday. Vera Schultz, former Marin County supervisor, and former Mill Valley council member, was the moderator for the discussion, held at the Mill Valley Public Library.

Each woman had a different view of her motivation in seeking political office. Mayor Sweeney indicated that she had no idea of running for the Sausalito Council, but because of her strong involvement with waterfront conservation problems in her home town, a group of citizens asked her to run.

Mayor Barnard said, "I assisted five men to achieve public office and I learned from that. Three of the men disappointed me and I decided there was only one thing to do — run myself." She also told the AAUW members that she intends to seek reelection at the end of her present term.

ROBIN SWEENY
AAUW speaker

JEAN BARNARD
Mayor panelist

Planning was the issue of greatest concern to Mrs. Sestak, who is the first woman elected to the Larkspur City Council since the city was incorporated in 1908.

"Larkspur's population, now 13,000, had doubled in a 10-year period," she said, "and the character of the community was changing." An active member of the League of Women Voters, she began attending council meetings regularly to "watchdog", and was appointed to the Larkspur Library Board. She ran a low budget-low key campaign, she said, accepting only contributions under $25. From these limited funds she was able to conserve a small surplus, which was donated to the town for planting trees.

A quarrel with Hugh Lawrence, former Sausalito planning commissioner, who was a candidate for the council, caused Sally Stanford to run against him, "although I did not consider him an opponent worthy of my sword". Although she lost that election, she continued her interest in Sausalito civic affairs and now serves on the council.

"You have to help yourself," she said. "People look to Washington to solve their problems, but you have to look to yourself.

"As for women in politics, a man can't even find his own shirt without a woman, whether she's a wife, secretary or whatever. Women can do better."

Mrs. Barnard had a quick answer for what she liked least about being mayor. "Dealing with the press," she said. "I put signs on my phones that say 'the press is your enemy'," she confided to the 50 women in the audience.

The Mill Valley mayor was also concerned that, for a woman, holding office could "cause such an impact on your private life that it could lead quickly to divorce. "Also," she warned the women, "your interest can begin to center around another man you're working with."

To this, Miss Stanford quipped, "The devil you know is better than the devil you don't know, so look him over pretty well."

For Mrs. Sweeney and Mrs. Osterloh the worst part of the civic responsibilities is the possible alienation of friends in their small towns when an unpopular decision has to be made.

Mrs. Sestak spoke of the attitude of her male colleagues on the council. "There was a period of credibility, when they asked 'Who is this do-gooder?' Later there was encouragement."

She is proud that Larkspur now has a planning staff and has become involved with other Marin cities and regional organizations in meeting common problems.

The women all felt that two terms of council service was enough, but all agreed that they would continue working for their communities in other ways when their official commitments were ended.

Dennise and Craig are planning to be married next May.

Child's Movie Will Be Shown

A children's movie, "Puss 'n Boots" will be presented at two showings, at noon and 2 p.m. Dec. 8 at the Marin Theater in Sausalito. The showings are sponsored by the Sausalito Cooperative Nursery School, and funds raised will assist with maintenance of the school.

Besides the feature, cartoons will be on the bill. Tickets will be sold at the door, and snack and soft drinks will be available.

Mrs. Sandra Versteeg of Sausalito is chairman and will be assisted by a committee of mothers of nursery school children.

Load Dishwasher In Proper Way

Spotty, dirty dishes from the dishwasher can be the result of faulty loading patterns rather than a malfunctioning machine. Rechecking use and care manuals will suggest specific patterns for particular models but there are some general rules of thumb that the Soap and Detergent Association recommends for every dishwasher.

First, place all soiled surfaces toward the water spray. Load pieces such as cups, glasses and bowls face down and tilted toward the water source in order to clean and drain properly, yet not block the water flow.

Mix and arrange flatware loosely in silverware basket to prevent nesting. Leave space between dishes for detergent and water to circulate. Care should be taken to place any item, large or small, in such a way that it will not block the movement of water and the dishwasher spray arms.

She has been on the board of directors for two years and was vice president last year. She has been a member of the organization for four years.

The purpose of the auxiliary is to conduct fund-raising activities for yacht club projects, according to Mrs. Tonking. The women also sponsor a series of monthly luncheons for the membership and other special events. The auxiliary is in charge of the club's annual Christmas party for members children on Dec. 16.

Wives of members and women members of the yacht club are eligible for membership in the auxiliary.

Lois Tonking is also a member of the Rafael Racquet Club. She enjoys playing tennis and bridge, sailing on the family's yacht, and browsing in antique shops.

Born in Morristown, N.J., Mrs. Tonking attended schools in New Jersey and an interior decorating school in New York City.

The Tonkings have lived in Marin County five years, having moved from Basking Ridge, N.J. They have three children, Debbie, 21, Kip, 18, and Bob, 15. Tonking is Western district manager of More Trench American Corporation.

Comedienne Lily Tomlin, noted for her character sketches of women such as Ernestine the telephone operator, will appear at the College of Marin at 8 p.m. Dec. 7.

The entertainer gained fame on television's "Laugh-In" doing such comedy parts as Ernestine and Edith Ann, the precocious four-year-old, and recently starred in the television special, "Lily." She attempts to make her act comic while saying something serious about the wrongs of society and the foibles of people, she says.

Tickets for the event at the college gym in Kentfield are available from the College of Marin box office weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

HELEN HELP US!

Should Parents Tell Teen-Ager If They Had Premarital Sex?

DEAR HELEN:

Here's a question more and more parents will be facing in these "let it all hang out" days.

If a teen-age girl who is just beginning to date asks her parents if they had premarital sex relations, should the parents lie, hedge, or tell the truth? — TWO WHO DID

DEAR TWO:

I'd say truth is stronger than fiction here; could prevent friction, too.

This might be a good opportunity to discuss sex-with-commitment, the problems of too-early and too-intense involvement, importance of decision-making (not what others, including parents, do, but what is best for me!); also goals, standards and, of course, birth control.

Your daughter won't hop into bed with her first boyfriend just because she learns her mother and father had one or more affairs. Rather, she — and boys too — will probably make wiser choices after talking to their parents on an adult basis. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm not a teen-ager. I should have known better. But I ended up pregnant because I went to a party where they mixed booze with pills. I was feeling pretty low about many things and just let myself go. I honestly can't remember what happened and I don't know who the father is. I hated myself too much to do any checking. Incidentally, I don't believe in abortion.

It's now seven months later. I haven't been to a doctor, and I don't show, or at least I can hide it with the clothes I wear. I'm still working.

The problem is I've met a wonderful guy who thinks I'm wonderful. And this is where my story and the love stories on TV part company: I don't have the courage to tell him I'm pregnant with a child whose father could be one of six men. He's asked me to marry him, and I told him I had to visit my parents for three months first. He thinks I'm just running away from him and I'll never come back. All I want is time to have the baby, put it up for adoption and become his wife.

Is this wrong, to fool him, when I know how much the truth would hurt? — PAYING MY DUES

DEAR PAYING:

Do you think you could have a decent relationship, starting out with a big lie between you?

If this man truly cares, he'll stand by you. If he doesn't, you'd better know it now than later. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I had a mental breakdown about 10 years ago. My son told his new wife about it, and she treats me in a very strange manner. She watches me, whispers to others in my presence, and even asked my other daughter-in-law if I was safe around the children.

My husband and I were over there the other day and she asked me to put down a paring knife, even though I was only using it to chop carrots for dinner. She raises her voice when talking to me, as if I couldn't understand otherwise. I know she's afraid to be alone with me.

I was never violent and am completely recovered. But if this keeps on she may push me into a relapse. If I make an issue, I'll appear "overwrought" and prove she's right. But ignoring hasn't helped. What now? — MRS. T. S.

DEAR MRS. S.:

The rest of your family must face up to the facts: This woman has more of a mental problem than you have presently, and she should be made to face it! — H.

Nightgowns And Dresses Look Alike

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The other day leafing through a department store Christmas catalogue I spotted just what I wanted in an evening dress.

It was low necklined but not naked, had small cap sleeves and a full flowing skirt to the floor.

I looked again. I was about to order a nightgown.

Even so, it wouldn't have been too far fetched, considering what some New York designers are featuring for spring. You could call it the bedroom look; evening wear soft and sheer as a hanky and almost always done in pastels, either solids or prints.

The boudoir look in evening clothes was a trend in three recent ready-to-wear Paris fashions. Now that New York designers are showing their new collections, it's there again for going out.

THE COLLECTIONS are being presented this week at the Plaza Hotel for about 250 visiting reporters in town for the semi-annual series presented under aegis of the American Designers Group.

Those evening dresses just represent a whole trend for spring and softening up of the silhoutte. There's not a structured look anywhere.

You'll find the stress is on sheer fabrics, on float, cling and swirl without a harsh line around even in the daytime suits that look more like casual dresses with their own jackets and frequent sweater toppings.

It's on the evening scene, however, that the prettiest and most feminine clothes appear. Oscar de la Renta and Pauline Trigere are among the promoters of the pretty, romantic look.

NEW YORK designers, like their Paris counterparts, experimented again with hemlines, some of them dropping to mid-calf. This Bill Blass cocktail dress shown in New York this week falls just below the knee in skirt length. (UPI Telephoto)

DE LA RENTA does chiffons in muted pastel print tones, sometimes ruffled, sometimes pleated, and some in ankle length as well as full length. His biggest hit is a group of solid-colored dresses in all the soft fabrics from satin chiffon to georgette.

Trigere adds voile to the evening scene—a fabric sheer as a chiffon in her hands. One of her cotton voiles is aglitter all over with stitched-on rhinestones with a wide petal skirt falling in points to the ankle.

Trigere does one breakaway for evening with her "casino" group of dresses, these done in a special new linen. They're a

Boss Of Construction Job No Weak Sister

MIAMI (UPI) — Peggy Griffin hitched up her faded jeans, brushed a strand of blonde hair away from her blue eyes and barked: "That rafter isn't straight, fix it."

Three burly carpenters dropped their saws, scrambled up a ladder and within minutes renailed the offending rafter to the satisfaction of the 36-year-old "foreman" of a $250,000 restaurant construction job.

She has been the "boss person" of the expansion of the Coconut Grove Playhouse restaurant since the first nail was driven three months ago.

And as the deadline for the restaurant's opening approached, someone wondered aloud if she could get the job done in time.

"Will the sun rise tomorrow," a carpenter replied. "Sure she can do it."

PEGGY DOESN'T doubt it either and says "despite the fact I'm here from 6:30 in the morning until well into the night, I love what I'm doing."

How did a country girl from Mississippi who can't cook and hates house cleaning wind up bossing a construction crew?

"Basically, my experience came from managing nightclubs—a job where you learn to do everything. A lot of nightclub work is handling people, and anybody who can handle barmaids can deal with construction workers ... They're a lot easier," she said, looking over the three dozen men scrambling around the construction site.

Peggy says about the only problem she has on the job "is I don't have a lot of strength."

"I mean, I watch a carpenter take two hours on a project he should do in an hour, and before I fire him I wish I could say, 'Look, do it this way,'" she said.

BUT PEGGY is no weak sister when it comes to swinging a hammer or wielding mortar and a trowel.

"I can do a lot of jobs myself," she said. "That concrete block wall over there is my handiwork and I had to do one of the ceilings when we were rushed for the next step."

And after this job is finished, Peggy says she's heading for Englewood, N.J., to direct the construction of another restaurant and after that she has still another construction job next spring in Houston, Tex.

bit like a harem look in that brief bolero jackets, sequin-trimmed, are paired with full skirts, separate from the tops. Take off the bolero and you have the briefest of jeweled bra tops. The length—nearly to the ankle.

Halston, the superstar of the New York fashion scene, does romantic-looking pastel chiffons in flowered prints and solid shades. Some have flowing, uneven skirts.

At Geoffrey Beene's, the softness shows in the long, loosely fitted chemises for evening, in his creamy satin pajama costumes with the shirt collars, unbuttoned and plunging, coupled with long, full sleeves gathered at the cuffs.

Beene uses matte jersey and honan silk, along with the usual chiffons and organzas. Beene, a scarf man from way back, shows a new way to wear the long rectangular shapes he prefers. Loop the rectangle at the back of dress, suit or coat, instead of at the front.

At Bill Blass, the soft touch shows in fabrics such as sheer georgettes, pearl gray laces and somber organzas in "garden party" type late dresses. They come replete with "garden party" hats—big floppy brimmed straws.

DONALD BROOKS ruffled about everything for evening. He made several cocktail and evening gowns nothing but a series of seven or eight tiers of narrow-pleated ruffles shaping the dress from bare top to hemline. Another of Brooks' soft touches—huge pussycat bows at the throat of gowns in white or black crepe, the rest of the shape slinky.

Freedom Vital To Korean Teacher

By ELIZABETH POND
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

SEOUL — Ham Sok Hon, sometimes known as the Gandhi of Korea, sprang to his feet to welcome his guest, then swiftly reseated himself on the floor.

His eyes sparkled with such delight at each new thought that he seemed more the leprechaun of his people than their conscience.

"In my opinion the first thing to do is to have freedom of speech," Ham said. His opinion was the same in the 1930's when he refused to teach his Korean students as the Japanese occupation prescribed; and in the 1940's when he refused to teach as the North Korean Communists prescribed.

Now his opinion applied once more to the intellectual restrictions of the present South Korean government.

Actually, Ham Sok Hon isn't much of a political activist. He is more a historical and religious thinker. His study of Korean history (a book banned under present censorship) portrays his country as suffering through the centuries for the sake of all mankind. His nonsectarian Christianity — he is a Quaker — looks for the New

HAM SOK HON
The Ghandhi of Korea

Word that will express unchanging truth to this age.

Nonetheless, Ham's abstract teachings have a strong political impact.

In a land of Confucian traditions, leadership by moral example is compelling. And Ham's nonviolent defense of human freedoms under every regime he has lived under has earned him wide recognition.

Koreans respect this septuagenarian for his refusal to speak official lies in a society where compromise is the usual condition of survival; and they see his half-dozen jailings or house arrests under the Japanese, the North Koreans, Syngman Rhee — and now Park Chung Hee — as the badge of Ham's integrity.

His teachings were an important influence on the student demonstrators who overthrew Syngman Rhee in 1960.

Recently, Ham Sok Hon again risked jail in signing a plea for a return to democracy in South Korea. He and eight colleagues were detained by security officails for a day after they protested "rule of terror" and "dictatorship" in a small rally in a downtown Seoul teahouse.

Altogether 15 senior civic and religious leaders signed the written "pledge that we will rise up and struggle with all our strength for the thorough restoration of democracy.

"People's conscience and the circumstances of their daily lives have been reduced to nothing by the rule of terror and dictatorship," the statement said.

In the conversation at his house, preceding the rally, Ham spoke of the need for action and of the bravery of university students who have demonstrated for freedom.

Last month's antigovernment marchers in Seoul were joined recently by student protesters in the southern city of Taegu. This latest demonstration is noteworthy, as Taegu is the hometown stronghold of President Park —and because the University at Taegu was one of the leaders in the student demonstrations that overthrew Syngman Rhee in 1960.

Ham occasionally slapped the floor for emphasis. His room was familiarly cluttered — with a pile of the traditional loose clothes he always wears, with Korean, Japanese, and English books, with papers in mid-composition, a teapot, a forgotten plate of cake, bottles, calligraphy brushes, small bits of sculpture, a reproduction of the Mona Lisa.

"I know nothing about politics, and I have no interest in it," he explained. "But in any situation, how can sincere people be indifferent to political matters?"

He continued ruefully, "Now we cannot meet, we cannot write . . . I think it's our own fault . . . Korean intellectuals are not brave enough.

"Deep in our minds we did not want a military regime (when the present government took over in a military coup in 1961). But no one would criticize and fight it . . . Now we are reaping what we sowed."

The telephone rang, and a Korean CIA (secret police) agent informed Ham that he would be dropping by in half an hour.

Ham conversed for a few more minutes, then ushered his foreign visitor out of the house. "Flowers are my hobby," he said as his parting words and pointed to the sprawling yellow chrysanthemums.

"I like them wild, I never chop them off." His eyes twinkled in pleasure, and for the moment the gardener in Ham Sok Hon totally replaced the historian and sage.

Growth Control Discussion Set

A proposed growth control ordinance to limit future residential development in Marin will be discussed by three county officials at a dinner meeting of the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen today at 7:30 p.m. at the Windjammer restaurant in Tiburon.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell and County Principal Planner Marjory Macris, will speak on the ordinance, which would create special growth control boards to carry out the policies of the Marin County General Plan.

Also tomorrow, the mayors and councilmen will elect representatives to the executive committee of Associated Bay Area Government, the Marin Transit District board and the Comprehensive Health Planning Council.

Talk Scheduled On Energy Crisis

Oil, the energy crisis and the Middle East will be discussed at 8 p.m., Dec. 13 at the Marin Jewish Community Center in San Rafael by Dr. Martin Primack.

Primack has a doctorate of philosophy in economics from the University of North Carolina. He spent 10 months in Israel on sabbatical last year. He is an associate professor of economics at San Jose State University.

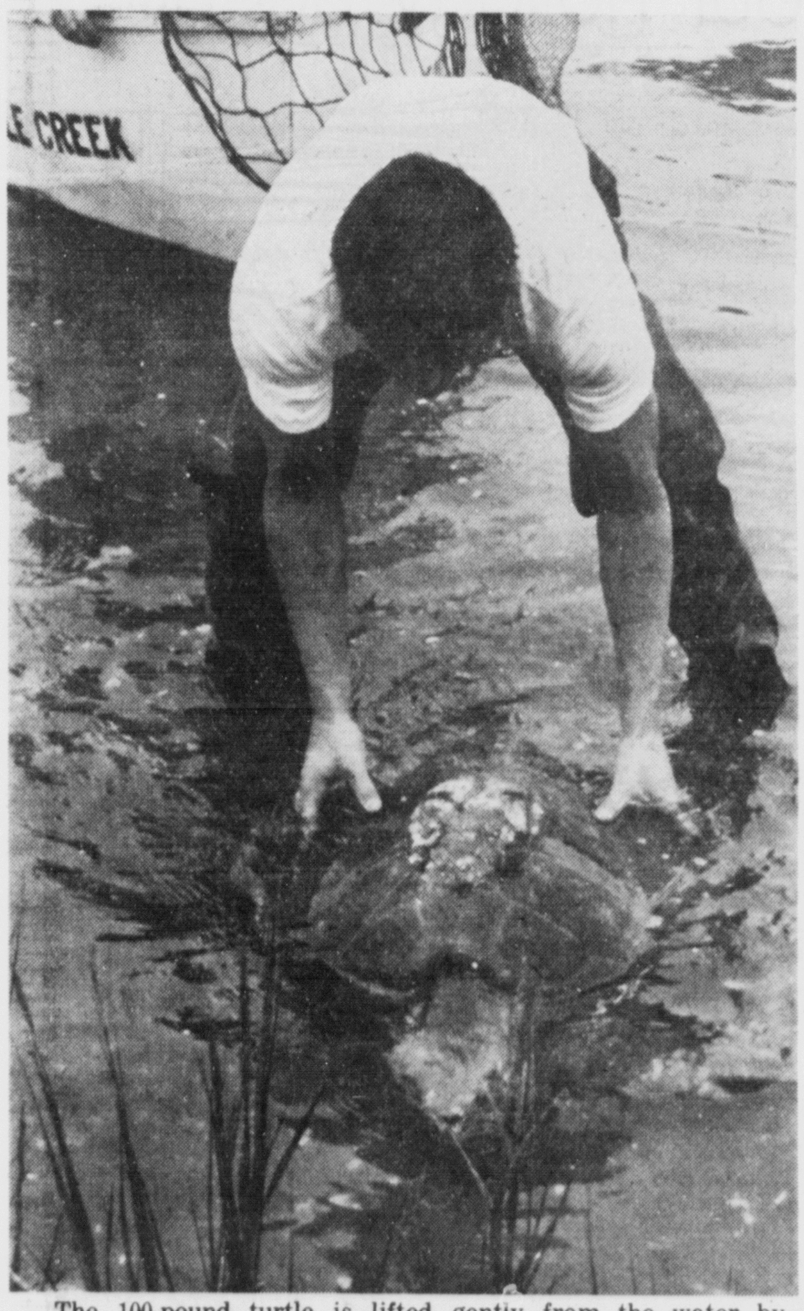
FAR FROM HOME

A green sea turtle, who wandered far from its natural habitat and got stranded in Strawberry Cove Lagoon, gets help from some human friends. Rescuers from the Boyd Museum and Tiburon Marine Lab towed the weary beast to shore yesterday. Max Eldridge, a fisheries biologist with the lab, said the turtles normally range from Central America to Baja California and are occasionally found in southern California waters, but rarely in the north, he said.



The 100-pound turtle is lifted gently from the water by Eldridge. It was spotted by a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. workman as it butted against the shoreline in a futile attempt to reach dry ground. Workmen at a construction project on the cove said the turtle first was sighted last week.

Ill from its long ordeal in the icy cove waters, the sea turtle rests on the ground as rescuers watch anxiously. Jerry Keith of the Museum said the reptile, now recuperating in a Berkeley veterinary hospital, is suffering from some kind of infection and it will take a few days to know whether it will recover.

New Crisis For Hilarita Project

By JEFF GREER

Answers to the many problems of the Hilarita Housing Project must be forthcoming by Jan. 15 or the Marin County Housing Authority will close the project in mid-February, authority directors declared last night.

The directors unanimously set the deadline to press the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development for a quick decision on the Tiburon Ecumenical Association application for a $2,682,000 loan to build 102 apartments to replace the World War II housing in Tiburon.

Edwin G. Weed, president of the association, applauded the move, though admitting, "I may be cutting off my own nose."

In addition to the Jan. 15 deadline, directors ordered the 23 remaining to draw up rules for eliminating safety and health hazards in the existing old apartments, if they want to continue living there until the new housing is ready sometime in 1975.

The tenants and Wallace K. Shepherd, housing authority executive director, have bickered for months because Shepherd has argued the old Hilarita units are unsafe and has sought to move the tenants into Marin City or other public housing against their will.

Eklund's motion capped almost three hours of debate on the fate of the holdout Hilarita families. About 30 persons, including many of the Hilarita tenants, attended the special meeting in the library of Reed School in Tiburon.

Authority Chairman Irving Perlman reported that he and other directors have found tangles of extension cords extending from the apartments' scarce electrical outlets to television sets and many appliances and flammable materials stored beneath the buildings. But, he noted, tenants generally kept the units in good condition.

The authority board also reported that hired consulting engineer Robert Ritter of San Rafael had found that water heaters lacked safety pressure and heat valves, wall heaters were improperly vented, bathrooms had wooden floors that are hard to keep sanitary, and Building E had open staircases that "would be natural chimneys" in case of fire, trapping second-floor tenants behind too-flimsy doors.

Ritter estimated renovation of the electrical systems, modernizing the heating and eliminating other hazards will cost about $16,800, to make the remaining units "reasonably safe."

Perlman listed other possible answers to the problem: move the tenants to Marin City; ask the City of Tiburon to help find other housing for the families and to pay the difference between the rent the housing authority can pay under HUD limits and the prevailing Tiburon rents, or fix up the old units, asking Tiburon and the county to pay part of the costs, and possibly asking tenants to pay up to $200 per apartment for the renovation.

Director Arthur Miller said he would favor the renovation — only if the remaining tenants can be guaranteed units in the ecumenical association project when it's ready. "Nobody has made it clear to me what'll happen to the tenants" if the association has to charge more rent — to meet loan repayments — than the housing authority can pay to lease units for the 23 families, Miller argued.

"The entire purpose" of the ecumenical association project "has always been to accommodate the existing residents," Weed said. "We've been fighting an endless battle" to get federal authorities to increase rent subsidies, he added. But the rent supplement can be applied for only after the association wins HUD approval of the loan to buy the eight-acre site from the Housing authority and build the apartments.

Weed suggested that the housing authority relinquish control of the old housing to his association. Shepherd said that could be done only by selling the property — and the City of Tiburon wants to buy the site of the old units, which are a different parcel from the site of the proposed new units.

Weed proposed — and housing authority officials accepted — that the Hilarita tenants and housing officials attend an ecumenical association meeting at 9 a.m. Saturday in the Reed School library to begin working on correcting the hazards.

Ritter was asked to prepare plans to call for bids on correcting the troubles, if the Jan. 15 deadline is met on the loan and tenant guarantees.

If the deadline isn't met, the directors agreed, they will serve 30-day notices to the tenants that they must move.

Housing Panel Counsel Faces Retainer Cut

Marin County Housing Authority director Arthur Miller, complaining of lack of response, tried last night to cut the retainer fee paid to the authority's attorney, Howard K. Morehouse.

Miller said he had asked Morehouse questions concerning Marin City rent fraud cases "for the last three meetings" but hadn't received any answer.

He proposed that if the answers weren't given soon, that Morehouse's $4,800 annual retainer be cut and "we'll use the money to hire him some help so we can get the answers."

Authority chairman Irving Perlman agreed to put Miller's demand on the agenda for the board's Dec. 4 meeting.

Miller's attack came as the board approved a contract to pay attorney John Dearman of San Francisco $150 a day — and $35 an hour overtime — for legal service to the new Interim Tenant Grievance Panel.

The grievance panel hasn't yet received any complaints that have gotten to the hearing stage, housing authority executive director Wallace K. Shepherd told the board last night.

The Marin County Housing Authority also:

DISCRIMINATION — Received a letter from the federal Office of Equal Opportunity, reporting that a survey of the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency found no evidence of discrimination, and commending the county agencies for "implementing equal opportunity requirements."

TRIP — Authorized Shepherd to attend a national housing officials' conference in Washington, D.C., Jan. 16 through 18, at a cost of not more than $600.

AUDIT — Hired Wolfong and Morris accountants of Oakland to audit the conventions and leased housing program as required every two years by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development. The firm's bid of $3,943 was lowest of three.

BUDGET — Postponed a hearing to Dec. 4, on Shepherd's proposals to revise the budget for the convention and leased housing program.

INVENTORY — Also postponed to Dec. 4, discussion on a request from the county planning department and City-County Planning Council that the housing authority make an inventory of low and moderate-income housing available throughout the county, estimated to cost about $4,000. "That would pay a lot of rent" for Marin families on the waiting list for subsidized housing, board member Robert E. Eklund Jr. objected.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Dec. 4 in the authority offices in Northgate Industrial Park.

Walk For Health Chairman Selected

Dr. Theodore Hiatt, chief of Marin County Medical Services, has been named to head the Marin County Walk for Health on Dec. 8.

Volunteers will go door-to-door to distribute literature about alcoholism, drug abuse, venereal disease and dental disease.

Shopping Center Plans Protested In Larkspur

About 150 Greenbrae dwellers and other Larkspur residents turned out last night to register, as they had earlier, opposition to a proposed shopping center which in their view, "would be dropped on Greenbrae's doorstep."

The occasion was the first public hearing before the Larkspur Planning Commission on an environmental impact report for the center proposed by the Rouse Co. of Maryland for 65 acres along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The company plans a two-level center which would include trees, roof planting, a scenic area along Corte Madera Creek, three major stores and more than 100 shops.

During the hearing, Larkspur's planning director, John E. Roberto, read letters from several agencies which indicated the center faces more difficulties than neighbors' objections.

The Marin Municipal Water District wrote that there is "no prospect of the moratorium (on new water hookups) being lifted in the near future." The Ross Valley Sanitary District said it does not presently have the facilities to treat sewage from the center, and the state Department of Highways said a proposed off ramp from Highway 101 to the center will not be permitted.

Many of last night's speakers objected to the center "because it is completely auto-oriented."

Residents of Greenbrae fear traffic congestion and noise, and the Marin County Transit District wrote in a letter that the shopping center plans "show no relationship to public transit."

Priscilla Bull, representing an ad hoc "Committee for Planning in the Ross Valley," asked that plans for any major projects in the area be held up until a plan for the entire lower Ross Valley is made.

James E. Miller, president of the Greenbrae Property Owners Association, objected to the plans not only because of traffic but also because he said other alternatives for the site had not been explored properly and because he doubted more shopping centers in Marin are needed.

A number of speakers indicated that if there is to be a new regional shopping center in Central Marin, they would prefer it in Corte Madera, where the Hahn Co. has proposed a center on marshland east of Highway 101.

"It's people we're worrying about," not the wildlife that might be disturbed if a shopping center were put on the Corte Madera marsh, said a man in the audience.

Last night was Larkspur's first go-around with an environmental impact report. The report had been prepared by a firm called Environmental Science Associates, hired by the city but paid for by the developer.

Another hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. Dec. 6, again at St. Patrick's Church parish hall in Larkspur.

MUSIC REVIEW

Symphony Opens Season Finely

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

The Marin Symphony began its 22nd season last night at the Marin Veteran's Auditorium with a glorious operatic program that featured guest artist tenor Jess Thomas in a dominating role for the evening.

Maestro Sandor Salgo programmed the concert to take full advantage of his guest's enormous talents, limiting the orchestral works to overtures or opening preludes, and incidental music of the operas which set the stage for Thomas' arias.

The singer donated his performance to the Marin Symphony as "a Thanksgiving gift and expression of affection for the Bay Area." A spokesman for the symphony said Thomas commands "many thousands of dollars" for an appearance and called his action as beautiful as it was valuable.

The opening Leonore Overture No. 3 demonstrated again the fine abilities of this community orchestra as Salgo delivered a polished performance — even in tempo yet emotional in content, with sweeping crescendoes and clean dynamic contrasts. Strings were nicely balanced, and brass in strong form. Woodwinds were uneven in ensemble although they were outstanding as individual soloists throughout the evening.

Thomas then sang Florestan's very beautiful aria in which he has a vision of Leonore leading him to freedom. This aria is one of the major themes from the overture, and, as throughout the program, the reiteration vocally of the first-heard instrumental version, pleases the ear. Thomas' presence is commanding; he is a handsome man of imposing height, with the enunciation of an actor (which, of course, he is), and a voice that packs a real wallop. Coordination with the orchestra occasionally strayed, in this first aria.

The music of Wagner comprised the entire remainder of the program. Favorite orchestral works such as the Prelude to Lohengrin, and the Siegfried Idyll, as well as three pieces from Die Meistersinger were the orchestral offerings, while Jess Thomas skimmed off the cream of Wagnerian tenor arias with selections from Lohengrin, Die Walkuere, and Die Meistersinger.

The orchestra spun out the single arch of the Prelude to Lohengrin, then wove a continuous web behind Thomas in the Lohengrin arias, "Hochstes Vertrauen" and "Gralserzahlung." The "Gralserzahlung" is a real show-stopper, and Thomas' full-throated tone conveyed great dramatic intensity.

The Siegfried Idyll is a musical gem, a small tone poem made up of themes from the opera written by Wagner as a Christmas and birthday gift for his wife Cosima, and in celebration of his son's first birthday. Its caressingly tender themes, and lilting lullaby were carefully handled by Salgo. Violins sounded a few sour notes in their opening passage but made a good recovery. Cellos and basses have never sounded better, with rich warm tone.

The introduction to ACT III of Die Meistersinger begins with a melody in the cellos, moves upward through the strings to the violas, then to second and finally first violins. Strings and brass choir then alternate melodic material. Brass were uniformly clean in chordal structure, with only minor faltering in later sections. Orchestral music from Die Meistersinger is not often performed by symphony orchestras but stands well as a separate work.

"Walther's Preislied" from Die Meistersinger was Thomas' grand finale, and he extracted every ounce of meaning from his dream of Eva in Paradise. The powerful melody conveys a zest for life well-suited to Thomas' eloquent reading.

The Marin Symphony Orchestra should have a successful season this year. Last night's concert filled the auditorium and prospective programs sound promising. Their next concert will feature music by Ravel, Rodrigo (with guitarist George Sakellariou), and Brahms' First Symphony at the Veteran's Memorial Building, Jan. 11 at 8 p.m.

Date Set On Farr's Appeal

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A hearing will be held Jan. 10 on an appeal by William Farr, a reporter battling to stay out of jail in a court vs. press case.

Farr served 46 days behind bars on an open-ended sentence for contempt of court before he was ordered freed Jan. 11 by U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, pending appeal. The hearing will be held by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeal, Farr's lawyer said Monday.

Farr was found in contempt for refusing to reveal to the judge in the Manson Family murder trial for the Sharon Tate killings the source of a story he wrote for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. Farr now works for the Los Angeles Times.

Envoy To Leave

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Robert McBride announced through an embassy spokesman yesterday that he will be leaving Mexico "in the near future" after four and a half years as American envoy.

Shortage Of Toys Seen By Major Manufacturer

NEW YORK (UPI) — That pogo stick, rocket or little red wagon may not be available unless the Christmas shopping is done early.

"Never before were toys expected to be so scarce," Henry H. Coords said yesterday. He is president of the Toy Manufacturers of America Inc., the trade association of the toys, games and decorations industry.

Now for the good news—"Never before were toys so safe and probably never again will the prices of toys be so low as they will be this Christmas," Coords added.

The toy shortage is expected to curtail the selection of toys just before Christmas, Coords said.

The shortages anticipated are traced to dipping supplies of raw materials due to the fuel shortage. The plastics in toys are made from petrochemicals, byproducts in the refining of oil.

They also will spring from the fact that this year there is an extra shopping week between Thanksgiving and Christmas, due to Thanksgiving falling when it did.

Coords, president of Fisher-Price Toys, said that "At no time since World War II have shortages of raw materials, such as plastic, wood, paper, steel and zinc hit the industry, until now."

To support his statement that never were toys so safe, Coords cited statistics gathered by the federal government that he said show what manufacturers have felt for a long time—toys are among the safest consumer products in the home.

In the priority list issued by the Consumer Product Safety Commission, the various categories of toys rated well down in the order of danger.

Coords can't guarantee that you won't find a punk toy, but he said the toy makers, 260 firms, are following voluntary safety standards adopted more than a year ago. More than 50 per cent of the toys on the banned toy list, put out by Uncle Sam periodically, are imports, the toy man said.

Planners Ask For Purchase Of Four Lots

The Mill Valley Planning Commission has asked the city council to consider buying as open space four lots on the west side of Miller Avenue opposite the Mill Valley Lumber Co.

Commission chairman Ivan S. Poutiatine said the suggestion was decided upon Monday when it was learned that one lot, owned by K. W. Lines of Mill Valley, would soon be developed with a duplex if the council did not act.

He said Lines has all city approvals needed for his building and the only way to stop the duplex is by buying his land. He said there is no immediate plan to develop the other lots and that development on them might possibly be controlled by rezoning instead of by purchase as green space.

According to Poutiatine, building on these four sites, which lie on a steep hillside, would be out of line with prior city plans calling for a buffer zone of green space on Miller Avenue on the fringe of the Lytton Square business district.

Also Monday a request to rezone Sabella's restuarant building in Mill Valley from commercial-recreational to commercial-general was denied by the commission.

Poutiatine said the commission turned down the request pending a report from the city's general plan consultants on what uses should be allowed in the marsh area off Highway 101 where the restaurant stands.

Gas Mileage Said Hiked By Additive

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — The developer of a new "gas stretcher" additive said yesterday a test has shown it can increase auto mileage by nearly 15 per cent.

Eric Green, head of G&M International, of Aptos, Calif., said a three-month test on 200 Santa Cruz County automobiles showed that average mileage was increased from 10.91 miles per gallon to 12.54 miles per gallon with the additive.

Bill Smith, in charge of the county cars, confirmed the results and said he thinks the additive, called E-C 100, is "fantastic."

Green said a Japanese refining company is studying the possibility of putting the additive into its gasoline.

The additive is also being tested by a U.S. airline for reduction of jet engine pollution and the Coast Guard is making a study on its use in boat power plants, Green said.

Green said the additive is made by a secret formula from petroleum ingredients and that expansion of production is currently being curtailed by government allocations of petroleum.

He said the additive increases gasoline mileage by improving combusion in the engine. It also improves engine performance and reduces smog when added to engine oil, he said.

Money Pledged For Home Loans

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — More than $702 million has been pledged to member savings and loan associations in Arizona, California and Nevada for use as housing loans during 1974, according to the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco.

The committment "means that additional funds for housing are assured in coming months, regardless of money market conditions, bank president Maurice Mann said Monday.

Under the program for S&L's in the 11th district, the Federal Home Loan Bank has agreed to make advances to all the associations that applied for the funds, beginning next March.

Coming Up: Five Administrative Assistants

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
26 SAN RAFAEL, CALIF, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1973 EDITORIAL PAGE

Well, now we know: the other four Marin County supervisors think Gary T. Giacomini has such a good thing going that they'd like to follow his example.

That good thing is Giacomini's employment, at taxpayers' expense, of a fulltime administrative assistant to help him with his part-time job.

LAST WEEK, William F. Dresia of San Rafael presented the board with a request that it rescind its authorization for administrative assistants to the supervisors, along with a $300 per month salary raise (from $1,100 to $1,400) that the board members voted themselves last spring. He proposed that both the assistants and the salary increase be put to a vote of the people.

It wasn't just Dresia's request. He had 1,500 signatures on it.

The supervisors turned him down unanimously. And then all of them indicated they may also add administrative assistants (at $10,500 per year each). Giacomini is now the only one who has such an assistant.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere said he agreed that Giacomini needs the assistant and may ask for one himself. Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Michael Wornum chimed in agreement. And chairman Arnold M. Baptiste, who voted against authorizing assistants at budget time, said he is for it now.

SO THERE YOU have it. You can expect the supervisors' payroll, now $94,500 per year for five board members and one assistant, to rise next year to at least $136,500 — including five assistants. It will probably go up more, with another raise for the board members and higher pay for the assistants.

In rejecting Dresia's request, the supervisors claimed that they spend almost unbelievable hours on their county jobs. Unquestionably, being a supervisor is time-consuming. It no doubt cuts considerably into the time that Giacomini can devote to his law practice, Roumiguiere to his real estate business, Arrigoni to stocks and bonds, Wornum to planning consulting, and Baptiste to his full-time job with Pacific Maritime Association.

However, surely this was known to them when they ran for the office — spending quite sizeable amounts to get it.

Also, we wonder how much of that time goes into their real work as supervisors and how much into campaigning for reelection (or election to a higher office). It is very hard to separate the two.

THE SUPERVISORS were rather cavalier with Dresia's request, because he did not attend the meeting accompanied by a "show of strength." They wanted to know where all the 1,500 signers were. Dresia gave them the obvious answer: at work, earning money to pay their taxes. But that did not impress the supervisors like a roomful of shouting activists does.

Dresia found his simple request an exercise in futility. There is, however, another way: a legal initiative petition for a vote on rescinding the pay raise and abolishing the administrative assistants. Judging from the ease with which Dresia got his 1,500 names, it could easily be qualified for next June's ballot, for which about 12,000 names would be necessary.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND: Division Of Powers

WASHINGTON — The most significant political event in Washington today is that a new division of power between Congress and the president is taking place.

Whatever the appearance, the reality is: For some time, perhaps to the end of the Nixon administration, Congress will dominate domestic policy and the president will remain substantially free to determine foreign policy.

SUCH A DIVISION of political power is new in American government.

But it is evident in the initiative which Congress took in shaping an energy-conservation bill stronger than the one sought by Mr. Nixon, in the war powers act, and in the determination of Congress to recover "the power of the purse" through a sweeping budget reform bill now before the Senate.

There are three factors which are bringing about this unprecedented division of power:

1 — The impact of Watergate on both Congress and the president. Congress is strengthened by the Watergate scandals because it had no part in them. The president is weakened because high officials of the administration perpetrated the scandals and then tried to cover them up.

2 — This weakening of the presidency comes at the very moment when Congress is already intent upon recovering the prestige and power which have slipped from its hands through disuse. These two forces fortify each other and give double impetus to the ascendancy of Congress.

3 — Add to these factors the powerful grip which the Democratic Party has on the power centers of Congress. There is a special incentive for the Democratically controlled Congress to retrieve its eroded authority because the Democratic Party has been primarily responsible for this erosion. Bear in mind that the Democrats have controlled Congress for 38 of the past 42 years, and it was during this period that the power of the presidency has steadily mounted and the power of Congress steadily diminished.

THERE IS NO REASON to expect that the nation as a whole will do other than accept —perhaps even welcome — this new division of power which may last for a considerable period. The reason there will be no likely resistance is that the American people deliberately and decisively chose a Democratic Congress over a Republican one in the 1972 elections.

In the voting last year, the American people produced a divided victory with a united voice. No party has ever lost the presidency so massively and simultaneously won Congress so decisively as the Democrats did in the fall of 1972. Apparently the voters knew what they wanted. By that very act they put the president in charge of foreign policy and Congress in charge of domestic policy, and now Congress is beginning to act accordingly.

Even in the conduct of foreign policy there will be more co-operation between Congress and the White House than has prevailed during the past five years. President Nixon is talking about "partnership" with Congress and Secy. of State Henry Kissinger is beginning to practice it. Nearly the last thing he did before his recent trip to the Arab countries, China and Japan was to consult with Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and the first thing he did when he got back was to meet with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

SECRETARY KISSINGER has met more often with his Senate committee in one month than former Secy. of State William Rogers met with it in a year. This kind of consultation was very productive when Republican Chairman Sen. Arthur Vandenberg was working in close contact with Dean Acheson and George Marshall, and when Democratic Chairman Sen. Walter George worked cordially with John Foster Dulles.

Fulbright and Kissinger are beginning to rebuild the bridge of co-operation destroyed by Vietnam.

President Nixon refers to a "congressional renaissance," and he is wisely helping to bring it about.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

The Case Of Fisher Island: Typical, But Close To President

MIAMI — While Mr. Nixon was cruising the waters off Key Biseayne, taking the late November sunshine with his friend Bebe Rebozo, the New York papers flown down for the president's daily infuriation were reporting that the state of Florida seeks belatedly to control its runaway growth. The Miami papers trucked across the causeway to the presidential retreat also carried a variation on the same theme.

They ran an elegy about Fisher Island, in Biscayne Bay, and how a local developer wants to turn it into a new community of 13,000 people — and, to be fair, they also ran a long letter to the editor from the developer himself, describing how his will be no ordinary new community, but a decoration rather than a blight on the bay where the President plays.

Florida has been having this kind of exchange more and more often lately because it has grown so fast in half a century that most of the things that impelled growth in the first place have been pushed far down the list of what matters.

The beaches, bays, rivers, lakes, Everglades, keys, birds, alligators, coral, quiet and fragrance all have suffered.

BUT IT IS STILL warm in the wintertime, and that is still what draws industry, entertainment, roads, motels and people down the peninsula. Six thousand newcomers swell the state's population each week.

As a result, 40 per cent of the state's estuaries are estimated to be polluted, 50 per cent of its shellfish waters unsafe for harvesting. Some communities in this wettest state in the union have chronic water shortages. Smog is creeping in. By the year 2000, Florida is expected to rank behind only California and New York in population.

If all this sounds pessimistic, and it is, it needs to be balanced by two points: The subtropical state has a natural ability to rebound from some abuses that would turn other parts of the country into desert, and it has an unnaturally high, if tardy, concern about the future among its public officials.

IN 1973 — and earlier — they are taking to heart what Raymond F. Dasmann wrote in the introduction to his book, "No Further Retreat":

"No state is under greater pressure from all the forces that place demands upon land, water and life. But in no other state are the environmental issues so clear, the natural values so high and so obvious, the ecological rules so easy to understand, and the consequences of failure so disastrous. Few other states have the combination of a political leadership that is growing more enlightened and a citizenry growing more dedicated to the environmental cause. The opportunity to win exists in Florida. The consequences of failure are unacceptable.

"The United States begins or ends in Florida. There is no further retreat than its tropical shores and islands. If we do not win the battle for the human environment in Florida, we will probably not win it anywhere. This is the challenge that Floridians must face."

Here near the southern tip, where the multilane highways, aircraft landing patterns and artificial canals are thickest, is of course where Floridians face that challenge most directly. And what Dasmann says about our country's beginning or ending here gives all Americans an interest almost as urgent.

THAT IS WHY all of us might usefully keep an eye cocked on the plans for that development on Fisher Island, for one example. It is 240 acres of largely unused beach and pines — one opponent of the development calling it "one of the most gorgeous islands in existence," but the developer himself labeling it a collection of old beer cans, oil storage tanks and erosion that will be improved by his plan for a high-rise island community accessible only by boat. Opponents want the state to buy it for a park, but the developer insists that he is "legally entitled" to its rezoning for his purposes.

Quite typical, those arguments on both sides. What makes the Fisher Island controversy is its presence in Biscayne Bay, where the president likes to relax — that, and the fact that the developer is named William B. Rebozo, and his uncle's nickname is Bebe.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

High School Students Believe Teachers Should Be Tested

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

About nine out of 10 of the United States' leading high school upperclassmen believe that their teachers should be tested periodically to determine their fitness to continue teaching. And more than half think students themselves should have a voice in hiring and retention of faculty members.

These are among findings in the fourth annual national opinion survey by Who's Who Among American High School Students.

It should be borne in mind that the survey did not attempt a cross-section of all high school students. Those questioned were leading juniors and seniors nominated for Who's Who by faculty members themselves. The questionnaire was sent to 50,000 studets nationwide, and answered by more than half of them.

Questions covered a wide territory of politics, social behavior, race and sex prejudices, etc. But responses to those regarding the high schools probably are most significant.

EIGHTY-NINE PER CENT said teachers should be tested at regular intervals to determine their job retention — something against which teacher organizations are quite adamant. Fifty-two per cent said students should have a voice in hiring and retaining teachers.

The student leaders were almost unanimous that students should also have a voice in deciding high school curriculum, 95 per cent saying "yes." However, 63 per cent said their high school courses (set up, in most cases, without student participation) had covered relevant matters.

Eighty-seven per cent rated the quality of education in their high schools at least adequate, with 37 per cent calling it excellent. And 84 per cent said they thought their schools had adequately prepared them to go on to college. But 49 per cent felt their preparation for entering a vocation was inadequate, with 41 per cent calling it adequate and the rest not responding to the question.

THESE LEADERS obviously have more firmly formed opinions about their careers than the average high school student, for 73 per cent said they have definite career goals in mind. Interestingly, 63 per cent said enjoying one's job was most important in a career, with only 2 per cent opting for "earning lots of money" and 3 per cent for "contributing to improving society."

In a series of questions about unionism, 60 per cent said labor unions hold too much power over the economy, 56 percent felt unions should be allowed to strike "only if national welfare or economy is not endangered," and 31 per cent felt strikes should be forbidden and replaced by compulsory arbitration.

The students apparently put teacher strikes in a special category. Exactly half said teachers should not be allowed to strike, with 45 per cent saying they should and 5 per cent not answering.

A SERIES of questions on drugs showed that at least the leading students want little part of the "drug scene." Sixty per cent opposed use of marijuana and 54 per cent were against legalizing it, although 47 per cent felt present penalties for marijuana use are too severe (22 per cent finding them "about right"). Almost all —94 per cent —disapproved of use of heroin, LSD, speed and other drugs.

On political questions, the responses were somewhat confused and sometimes even contradictory. But on the Vietnam War — with which these youngsters have grown up — there was solid consensus. Only 5 per cent thought the United States should give military aid to South Vietnam, and 59 per cent were against any kind of aid whatever to North Vietnam. And 70 per cent called the Vietnam war settlement "a solutuon that has not really settled the political problems there."

On the whole, the students showed themselves fairly well informed, thoughtful, and quite free of prejudice — as should be expected from 17 to 18-year-old student leaders. The most surprising response was that nine out of 10 felt teachers should be tested at regular intervals to decide whether they should keep their jobs.

Firing Of Lunding In Accord With Mandate

Your editorial on the removal of Jorgen Lunding from the planning commission by a 3-2 vote of the city council was a classic of half-truths and inaccuracies. It also reached highly misleading and dangerous conclusions. Your call for repeal of the council's right to remove commissioners would effectively rob the voters of any authority whatever over the planning commission.

Lunding's firing of course had nothing to do with free speech or any requirement that he vote "ja" on council policy. It had everything to do with the fact that for more than a year Lunding and other commissioners have deliberately obstructed, delayed and attempted to redirect the city's new general plan. He was ousted not because he was trying to have his commission play its "proper role," but because he has refused to accept the fact that he and his supporters are not going to be allowed to dictate the direction of San Rafael's future as they dictated so much of its past.

Miskimen, Nixon and Mulryan took an action that was totally consistent with the mandate given by the voters in April of this year. The people of San Rafael are determined to play a key role in the planning of our city's future, in spite of Jorgen Lunding and many other members of the "old guard".

Your editorial did serve one useful purpose. The listing of Lunding's involvement with so many development interests makes it clear that such potential conflict of interest should perhaps have eliminated him from a seat on the planning commission long ago.

Baltimore Canyon is indeed fortunate in the I-J carrier who serves us. Bad weather doesn't stop Chris Cook. You could call him the neighborhood Voice of Conscience.

On a dark, stormy night, Nov. 9, I came home to find no I-J. Evidently a neighbor dog made off with our copy, left on the front steps. A call to Chris (long after the suggested phone call time) brought Chris bearing his family's own copy of the newspaper. Following a phone check with his substitute (a school field trip lasted too late for Chris to make regular deliveries on time) to make sure the I-J had been delivered here and was indeed lost.

Delivery was made at 8:30 p.m. in a pouring rain on a weekend night, which for a less responsible boy would have been fun night off.

All Chris's business dealings are like this.

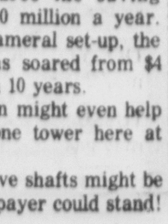
Twin Towers For Capitol? Why Not Unicameral One?



By RUS WALTON

It looks as though we are on our way to getting a double shaft from the birds of Babylon.

A couple of consulting firms have recommended to the legislature's Joint Rules Committee that it build a new capitol. The betting is that it will take the form of twin towers.

The projected cost for the whole package? A measley $125 million!

That's enough to make a fellow take to the streets campaigning for a one-house legislature. That would reduce the number of birds and the need for so many roosts.

FORMER STATE SEN. Lewis Sherman, now a municipal court judge in Oakland, is doing just that. He is temporary chairman of a citizens' drive to qualify a unicameral initiative for next year's November ballot.

Under Sherman's proposal, the State Assembly would be abolished and a new 99-member State Senate would be created. Those 99 senators would be elected to four-year terms and would be held to a maximum of three terms. That way the new house would not become a home.

The Senate would be governed by a 15-member rules committee. That bi-partisan committee would assign and schedule bills, appoint committee chairmen and members, and employ committee staff personnel. The president pro tempore, elected by the full Senate, would be chairman of that rules committee.

Under the present system, bills that make their way through committee and reach the floor of either house must be read three times before final vote. Under Sherman's plan, bills would be read four times — with a specified time lapse between the third and final reading. Then the final vote could be taken.

Another provision of the Sherman initiative calls for the creation of a reapportionment commission. That independent citizens body would have the responsibility to redistrict California's federal and state legislative districts once every 10 years.

Sherman predicts that would prevent politicians and incumbents from trying to carve the state to fit their personal fancies.

SHERMAN CONTENDS the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote decree in the mid-'60s makes the two-house legislature a vestigial apparatus of government. Prior to that court opinion, representation in the Assembly was based strictly on population and representation in the state Senate was based largely on geographical area. That is no longer the case.

A one-house legislature would streamline government and save the citizens money. Sherman figures the saving would be well over $10 million a year. Under the existing bicameral set-up, the legislature's budget has soared from $4 million to $45 million in 10 years.

Sherman's proposition might even help hold things down to one tower here at Babylon.

Consumer Protection Is Offered

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A pamphlet giving consumers tips on how to protect themselves against deceptive or fraudulent practices in the repair of electronic appliances has been issued by the state Consumer Affairs Department.

The pamphlet, titled "Consumer Guide to Repair Services for Electronic Equipment and Appliances," provides tips on appliance service and lists associations and organizations which might assist consumers in addition to suggestions on how to avoid being bilked.

It also says a quarter of all service calls would be unnecessary if plugs, fuses, pilots and controls were checked first.

The department yesterday said copies were available in English and Spanish by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Repair Services Guide, Box 310, Sacramento, Calif. 95802.

Action Delayed On Hub School District Zoning Law Violation

The San Anselmo City Council last night delayed action on a San Anselmo School District violation of city zoning laws.

Postponed until the city's general plan is completed is a council decision on district rental of office space at Isabel Cook School to the Volunteer Bureau of Marin without a use permit. Such uses are outlawed in residential districts.

The school district rented the space to the bureau recently after deciding to phase out the school over a three-year period.

The city administration had recommended that action on the matter be postponed until the city general plan is completed and hearings are held on future use of the facility.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

REDHILL — Denied rezoning 240 and 250 Redhill Avenue to specific plan development district as requested by owner Roland A. Mireles, who proposed remodeling into two units a three-unit apartment on the parcel and adding a three-unit structure. Councilman Warren R. Perry opposed the move despite traffic and environmental concerns of neighbors, but voted with colleagues to refer the proposal and council action to the planning commission for consideration of only four units on the land.

DOG LICENSE — Said dog licenses will be issued every two years instead of annually, and recommended that the Marin County Humane Society hike from $5 annually to $11 biennially the fee for unneutered dogs.

FENCE — Approved a $1,143 allocation for fencing at the Memorial Park ballfield.

CENTER — Took no action on a proposal by parks and recreation director Gary Howell to move the recreation office 25 yards from its current site off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to a room in Isabel Cook School.

MEETING — Set 8 p.m. Dec. 18 in city hall for a review of the open space and conservation element of the city general plan.

ADJOURNMENT — Put over other matters, including a discussion of energy conservation measures, to 8 p.m. Dec. 11.

Horse Ordinance Action Is Tabled

The San Anselmo City Council, again wrestling with a controversial horse control ordinance, last night gave up in frustration and put the matter on ice indefinitely.

Councilmen, failing to come to grips with the proposal after a two-hour hearing before an overflow crowd at city hall, tabled action on the matter "until further notice". Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson opposed the move.

"The best thing we can do — and we're not trying to go hide in a corner somewhere — is table it," explained councilman Woodrow V. Capurro to the crowd, which was composed largely of horse enthusiasts who appeared generally pleased at the move.

The ordinance, the latest in a five-year series of attempts to regulate the keeping of horses in the city, was the result of months of discussion by the planning commission with horse owners, neighbors and outside experts.

Councilmen appeared startled when told by horse enthusiasts that only eight horses are kept within the city limits.

"It's nonsense to have a 14-page ordinance for a problem that involves only eight animals," declared councilman Martin G. Blinder, who said abatement procedures are adequate to handle any problems.

The council majority voted to table the ordinance after City Atty. Hadden W. Roth confirmed that nuisance laws exist to abate any problems that occur within city limits. Anderson, angered at the inaction of his colleagues, said later that putting the issue on ice "got us nowhere."

Economic Picture For October On Plus Side

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's index of leading economic indicators edged up in October after a drop in September that was much greater than originally estimated, the Commerce Department reported today.

The index, regarded as a good barometer of future economic trends, has been moving erratically in recent months after a steady, 2-½ year upswing.

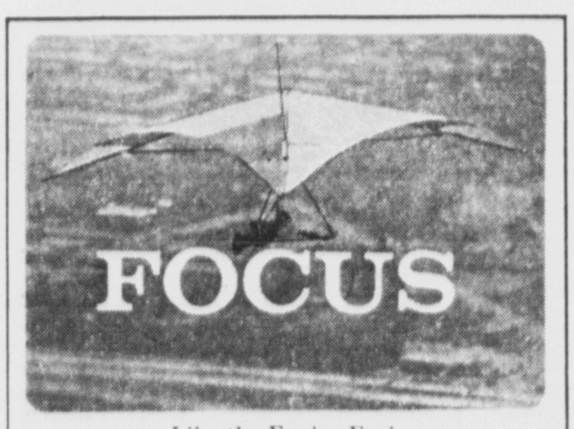
In October, the index rose a modest 0.2 per cent, with stock prices contributing most of the upward push —prior to their recent plunge.

The Commerce Department's analysts revised their original 0.4 per cent estimated decline for September sharply downward to a 1.6 per cent drop, one of the biggest monthly dips since the index has been kept.

Because statistics used in compiling the index are received at different times, the department uses eight indicators for its first estimate and then revises it a month later when four more become available.

For October, five of the eight available indicators went up: new orders for durable goods, contracts and orders for plant and equipment, industrial materials prices and the price-labor cost ratio.

Declines were recorded in length of the average work week and building permits. New claims for unemployment insurance also went up but that is considered a bad sign for the index.



Like the Eagles Feel

"It puts flying back into flying." "You feel like the eagles feel." People react like this after trying hang gliding, one of the country's fastest-growing sports. The vehicle is the Rogallo kite, named after a NASA scientist who invented a flexible wing for possible use with space vehicles. The sport appeals to a wide range of budgets and tastes for adventure. A homemade kite may cost as little as $15, while sophisticated commercial Rogallos may cost upward of $600. Some people ride updrafts thousands of feet into the sky, while others coast serenely above the ground at an altitude of 10 feet or so. Ski slopes are ideally suited to hang gliding.

DO YOU KNOW — In gliding, what is a "thermal"?

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 28, the 332nd day of 1973 with 33 to follow.

The moon is between the new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

British poet William Blake was born Nov. 28, 1775.

On this day in history:

In 1520, Ferdinand Magellan entered the Pacific Ocean on his way around the world. He was the first European to sail the Pacific from the east.

In 1958, the United States fired an intercontinental ballistic missile at full range for the first time.

In 1963, Cape Canaveral, the space center in Florida, was renamed Cape Kennedy to honor the assassinated president. It is now back to Cape Canaveral.

In 1971, Jordan Premier Wafsi Tel was assassinated in Cairo by three gunmen.

A thought for the day: President George Washington said, "The basis of our political system is the right of people to make and alter their form of government."

CORRECT LEAD

West wasn't likely to have a heart suit headed by K-Q-10, by K-10-9, Q-10-9 or 10-9-8. In the first case, he would have led the king; in the other three cases he would have led the ten.

There were only six remaining cases. West might have K-Q-9 or K-Q-8, and in these two cases, South would gain by playing the jack of hearts from dummy. But there were four cases that went in the other direction: K-10-8, Q-10-8, K-9-8 and Q-9-8. In these four situations, South would be better off if he played a low heart from dummy.

THE ODDS

South couldn't know what West had at the head of his heart suit. However, South knew that the odds were 4-to-2 in favor of playing a low heart from dummy at the first trick.

When South followed the odds, by playing a low heart from dummy, East covered with the nine, and South won with the ace. Declarer led a diamond to dummy in order to try the club finesse.

SUIT BLOCKED

West took the king of clubs and led another heart, but the suit was blocked. East won with the king of hearts but could not return the suit, and South was then safe.

If declarer had played the jack of hearts from dummy at the first trick, East would have played the king, and the suit would have been established. West would gain the lead with the king of clubs to defeat the contract with the rest of the hearts.

Fishing Industry Fuel Plea Made

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Fish and Game Commission has called on federal and state officials to give a high fuel priority to California's commercial fishing industry and commercial passenger fishing fleet.

In a resolution released yesterday, the commission cited contributions of the fishing industry to the world's protein supply and the "efficient utilization of a renewable resource which cannot be stockpiled."

It said California's 5,000 commercial fishing boats produced an annual catch grossing more than $100 million at dockside and processing worth an additional $320 million.

Body Of Man Is Discovered

The decomposed body of an elderly man was discovered Monday near the Rohnert Park Golf Course.

The Sonoma County coroner's office estimated the body had been there for three to six months. An autopsy was scheduled today to determine cause of death, but foul play is not suspected.

The body was found by railroad workmen at 1:30 p.m. in a 21-inch culvert between railroad tracks and the seventh hole of the golf course. No identification was found.

Police theorized that the man may have been riding a train and crawled into the culvert to sleep for the night. Officers said the body was found in a makeshift bed built from cardboard boxes.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Leukemia Contagious To Cats But Not Passed On To Humans

Cats develop a form of leukemia that is contagious for them, but not humans. According to Dr. William D. Hardy, Jr., head of the Laboratory of Veterinary Oncology at the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, if a healthy cat lives in the same household with another unrelated cat that comes down with leukemia, the normal cat stands a 33 per cent chance of developing leukemia. He still is a perfectly safe cat, but there is a 25 per cent chance that he will die of the disease within a six-month period.

NO ONE KNOWS how the cat leukemia virus is transmitted. According to Dr. Hardy, the virus could be disseminated by air from nasal secretions or saliva or, perahps, via urine or blood. Bloodsucking insects, such as mosquitos or fleas, could obtain the virus from a leukemic cat and pass it along to a healthy feline. As a protective measure, any feline exposed to a sick cat should be tested for the leukemia virus. If positive, the cat should be isolated or put to sleep to avoid infecting other cats.

It is hoped that researchers will develop a way of protecting high risk cats by vaccinating them with live but, weakened (attenuated), leukemia virus to stimulate antibodies against viral attack. Humans need not worry. We have been living for years with chicken leukemia which is more prevalent than that which cats have developed.

ANIMAL RESEARCH is usually started with the idea that it will solve a human problem or answer a scientific question that is applicable to man. Most of the nutritional studies that were done on laboratory animals uncovered many facts related to fats, proteins, carbohydrates, vitamins, and minerals.

Humans benefitted, but so did the animals. For example, many canned dog and cat food formulas are traceable to these yearly experiments. There is no doubt the studies on cat leukemia were started to improve our knowledge of human leukemia. Furthermore, if a vaccine can be formulated to help cats, we should be able to develop a related serum to prevent cancer in humans.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

Shaving Soap Too Obvious

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI) — Thomas Barnett backed into another car and then tried to bluff his way out of trouble.

He ran home, shaved off his mustache, returned to the scene and told police his car had been stolen. But the other motorist recognized him even without his mustache, and the policeman spotted flecks of shaving soap under his nose, according to court testimony yesterday.

The judge ordered Barnett held in custody for a medical report.

Aussie Attacks Reagan's Stock As Politician

CANBERRA (UPI) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan was called a bad actor and a worse politician today by an Australian senator.

James McClelland, a ranking government senator, made the remark while debating an opposition motion accusing the Labor government of exercising arbitrary powers concerning business.

"It puts me in mind of Gov. Ronald Reagan, that second rate cowboy film actor and third rate regional politician who made a speech yesterday to the Institute of Directors in Sydney," said McClelland.

Reagan yesterday said business was more efficient than government, and therefore government should act as a referee instead of a participant. McClelland said Reagan would have approved of the opposition motion.

Smallpox Cases Take Big Surge

ATLANTA (UPI) — An upsurge in the number of worldwide smallpox cases has been reported by the World Health Organization, the National Center for Disease Control said Monday.

Through Nov. 13, a total of 101,823 cases of the disease had been recorded this year, the highest for the period since 1967, the NCDC said.

Over 90 per cent of the cases were reported by Bangladesh, four states of India and one province of Pakistan. All of these areas have experienced widespread epidemics this year, it said.

An intensified three-month campaign has been launched in the affected areas to detect and eliminate the disease, the NCDC added.

Review Asked On Parking Regulations

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — University of California regents want an appellate court review of Environmental Protection Agency regulations on parking.

The regents told the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday that the rules would lead to large hikes in campus parking fees. This, a UC spokesman said, would force persons to park off campus or find alternate modes of transportation. The university would thus lose revenue despite the rate hikes.

Two Jobs Make For A Long Day

By JO ANN LEVINE
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK CITY — After working 18 hours a day at two jobs, Gustavo Bencosme heads for home.

His wife, Eileen, who has arrived there from her job about 6:30 p.m. waits up for her husband to walk in the door at 12:15 a.m.

Bencosme is one of about four million Americans holding two jobs. The number of workers in this moonlighting category stays at a steady 5 per cent of the work force, mainly, say sociologists, because there are not all that many opportunities to hold two jobs.

There has been little documentation of the effect of the long hours that moonlighting has on families. "It is an area that needs study, and we haven't done it yet," noted Phillip Bosserman, professor of sociology at the University of South Florida in Tampa.

Meanwhile, Bencosme has little trouble talking about the impact of his own long work hours on his family, which includes his wife, 2-month-old Christopher, and Ninette, 3.

"My wife used to complain and say 'I don't know what I'm going to do because you are never, never at home.' It's hard, very hard, to belive, but otherwise I can't pay the bills, and that's the reason I work so hard."

Bencosme says he sees some financial progress. He now makes more money than two years ago and his morning job of driving a school bus for children who attend private schools in Manhattan is easier than his former job of working in a restaurant in the morning before changing clothes and becoming a doorman in an East Side apartment building.

"Two years ago," he said, "we couldn't save anything. Now we save some money. Why do we work so hard? Well we have many reasons. The kids' education is most important. I am going to try and give the kids the kind of education I never had."

Bencosme, who emigrated here from the Dominican Republic six years ago, continued. "I say, 'New York is New York, and if you work hard you can make money.'"

GUSTAVO BENCOSME
School bus driver

GUSTAVO BENCOSME
Apartment house doorman

Bencosme really sees his children only when they are awake on weekends. He feels this will not hurt them a bit.

"I think that as soon as the kids are around five years old, I will have to talk to them and make them understand what I am doing — that I have to work hard and that the reason I have to work hard is that I have to send them to school. You know, explain it to them very gently. So I don't think it is any problem. On the weekends, we have enough time to take them out of the city to places like Long Island."

Until they moved recently from a larger apartment to the apartment in a house owned by her brother, the Bencosmes were paying as much for rent, baby-sitters, and transportation as Mrs. Bencosme was making at her job. Now the family is saving about $100 a month on rent although she has to spend a $1.40 a day taking the subway and bus back and forth to work.

She spends her evenings playing with her children, putting them to bed, keeping the house in immaculate order, and preparing for the next day.

One of the reasons Mrs. Bencosme is able to keep her job as bookkeeper, receptionist, and secretary for a fabric and decorating firm in Manhattan is that her starting time is flexible, and she can leave home as late as 10 a.m.

Bencosme maintains: "When you are not a professional you have to work this hard to get by these days."

However, sociologists have noted that moonlighting is not a class phenomenon. Dr. Harold Wolinsky, professor of sociology at the University of Clifornia at Berkeley, found in one study that 11 per cent of the moonlighters are professors. He wrote in an issue of Industrial Relations magazine:

"Two characteristics of the moonlighter's present position are crucial. "First, he is a man caught in a life-cycle squeeze. He has many dependents and family resources below what his modest aspirations require . . .

"Second, the moonlighter is the middle mass is on a deviant schedule — some form of shift work — or, if he is a professional, he has unusual control of his schedule (most professors and lawyers)."

Janice N. Hedges, an economist with the US Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said, "It has been rather surprising to me that the proportion of people holding more than one job has been very, very, stable in the almost 20 years since the Bureau of Labor Statistics has been gathering statistics. Nothing seems to affect it much . . . It may be there are so many factors at work, including the rate of inflation."

Shop Center Size Cut By Planners

The Novato Planning Commission last night approved halving the size of the San Marin Shopping Center at San Marin Drive and San Andreas Drive.

The site, under the original San Marin Master Plan, was to have a 15-acre shopping center. The commission last night approved leaving 7.5 acres along San Marin Drive zoned for a shopping center, but rezoned the northern 7.5 acres for townhouses, according to Secretary Juanita Gibson.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

COMMERCE PARK — Approved plans for the Bel Marin Commerce Park of eight acres on Bel Marin Keys Boulevard by Los Robles Mobile Home Park for Ronald Antonioli.

PREZONING — Prezoned a group of five properties, including the Fernando Cleminino property in East Novato to make the zoning consistent with the master plan. This is another in the actions to make the actual zoning confirm to the master plan.

MOUNT BURDELL — Approved the Mount Burdell prezoning and development plans. These now go to the Novato City Council on Dec. 11 for its approval.

DATE — Set 8 p.m., Dec. 10 to consider the technical report on open space and an amendment to the zoning administrator proceedings.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m., Dec. 10 at the Novato Community House.

Fund Deficit Studied By Sanitary District

The Novato Sanitary District board found itself unable to decide last night whether to increase the tax rate or levy a service charge to make up a $75,000 deficit in the operating budget.

For the time being, the shortage is being met by taking from the capital improvement budget, said Charles A. Joseph, engineer-manager.

The board was prevented by law at budget time last year from increasing the tax rate to cover the deficit, but the law has been changed and now allows the district to tax up to $1 per $100 assessed valuation, Joseph said. The district's current rate is 33 cents per $100, he said.

The board could increase the tax rate by 8 to 10 cents, or make a special tax to cover sewer service, he said. It postponed any action on it until a later meeting, he said.

The Novato Sanitary District Board also:

MAIN — Approved main extension to 50 units in Crossroads unit 3 at Highway 101 and South Novato Boulevard.

EXTENDED — Extended main application dates on Crossroads Unit 2 from Nov. 29 this year to Jan. 2, 1975 and on Pleasant Valley Unit 7 from Dec. 7, this year to Dec. 19 next year.

TERMINATED — Terminated the employment of Russell Randrup, plant operator and construction inspector on Dec. 30 because of physical disability. Joseph recommended the termination because physical handicaps have kept Randrup from performing his duties, he said. Randrup has been with the district for 13 years.

COMPLAINT — Referred to Joseph a letter from Paul Davis of 307 Capetown Court complaining of the service of the Novato Disposal Service.

Fund Grant Application Is Approved

The Mill Valley School District board has authorized Alto School to apply for a $60,000 federal grant for a learning materials library.

Supt. Peter Palches said that according to Alto Principal Esther Padway, who is organizing the project, the district would contribute $20,000 over a two-year period for the library.

The district money would pay librarian salaries while the federal money would buy library materials consisting largely of films and tapes. Palches said other schools besides Alto will be using the library.

Palches said he also reported to the board that he received 65 applications for the job of principal of Old Mill School and said the position probably will be filled on Dec. 8.

Welfare Fraud Probers Hired

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Two veteran investigators have been hired by the Reagan administration to intensify its attack against welfare fraud.

Welfare Director David B. Swoap said the action was taken to reduce the current six-month statewide backlog of welfare fraud cases.

Swoap also said restitution payments had fallen far below the actual sums ordered by courts in proven fraud cases. He noted only $1.1 million in restitution payments had been collected out of $5.8 million in total orders during the previous fiscal year.

The new investigators are Ellis C. Graham, supervisor of investigations in Ventura County and a 24-year veteran as an Army counter-intelligence agent, and Fred J. Turra of San Francisco, a former investigator for the Department of Health.

A Solution For Underground Lot

ROME (UPI) — A huge underground parking lot inaugurated early this year under Rome's Borghese gardens never attracted all the cars it was designed for, so the Automobile Club has come up with a new idea.

Starting today, one section of the parking lot will house an exhibition of contemporary art.

Drake's Lazzarini Selected Football Coach Of Year

By LEW CODDINGTON

You don't have to be long in the tooth to remember Dean Lazzarini in his glory days on the football field, slashing past tacklers, exploding upfield in a surge of 9.6 speed.

How strange it must seem, then, to see him with a clipboard in his hand, a headset jammed into his ear, his only moves now being short, intense paces up and down the sidelines.

Dean Lazzarini in conference. Dean Lazzarini studying game films. Dean Lazzarini at the top of an organizational chart. It's hard to comprehend, but it might as well be accepted, because it looks like Dean Lazzarini will have a long and successful career at his new chosen craft.

In his first year as head coach of the team for which he used to play, Drake High School, Lazzarini brought the Pirates up from the murky lower depths of the Marin County Athletic League standings. For that achievement, he has been named Coach of the Year by the Independent-Journal.

"I'm an organizer by nature — that's my forte," he says, and that trait was reflected by the alert, tightly disciplined Pirates, who made liars of anyone expecting them to duplicate their grim 1972 season, when they were 2-7 overall and tied for last in the MCAL at 1-5.

Instead, Drake improved its overall mark to 5-5 and finished a strong third in the league at 4-2. Among the victories was a 20-14 upset of co-champion Novato, and among the losses was a 7-6 heartbreaker to co-champion Redwood. Two more points in that one, and the Pirates would have been playing in the Top of the Bay Bowl last Friday.

Novato coach Al Scott, whose team fashioned five consecutive shutouts, and Redwood's Phil Roark, whose squad had the best overall record in Marin, were other contenders for the award, which was made on the basis of regular-season performance and did not consider the outcome of the bowl.

"The toughest thing for me this year," said Lazzarini, "was to assume command after being assistant coach. It's a tough changeover for anybody, and at my age (25) it might have been tougher, because my assistants had been around the game much longer than I had. But it turned out not to be a problem."

The man "Lazz" replaced as head coach was veteran of two decades, Bob Franceschini, who had been his coach at Drake in the mid-1960s. "Fran" remained on the staff as a line coach — a potentially awkward situation.

"That went through my mind," said Lazzarini. "It takes a special kind of person to do that, and he can. He was so honest, such a great guy to be around that there was never any question about it working."

One of Lazzarini's goals at Drake was to put together a full-sized staff of at least seven coaches. To Franceschini, Dan Orr, Dick Creighton and Carl (Red) Brown, Fran added Bill Ingram and Mike Miller.

"Our staff is super-organized," he said. "It's not a question of me having to dictate — it's a staff development."

Lazzarini changed the Drake offense in mid-season, going from a pro set to a power-I, but it was "a real smooth changeover, no problems." The offense responded immediately, exploding for two quick touchdowns to beat Terra Linda 28-15, after a 32-6 loss to San Rafael the week before.

In addition to building a strong varsity coaching staff and team, Lazzarini feels an important accomplishment was building the freshman program. "We wanted to give them the experience of winning, and make them feel a part of the program. The varsity went to some of their games and cheered them on, and they did the same for the varsity in the Redwood game.

"We're trying to get the whole program going," he said. "We're not telling them they're 'just freshmen,' to keep their mouths shut and stay in the background."

The enthusiasm of the team carried over to the student body. "The whole atmosphere has changed here completely," he says. "The student body has been just great. I was superproud twice: when the kids started singing the national anthem against Terra Linda, and at halftime of the Redwood game when the parents and kids came out onto the field to cheer the team."

Part of the reason for that was that they had a fine team to cheer — and the Coach of the Year to build the team.

Hall Of Fame Night In San Francisco

He couldn't run to the microphone with the speed he had in the '20s when he was becoming a football legend. His posture is somewhat bowed, but his broad shoulders reveal the strength he had in his youth. But now he is 71. The days of running are long past.

ERNIE NEVERS

The man is Ernie Nevers of Tiburon, one of the all-time greats of the sports world, and the pages of history were rolled back last night when he was honored for his contribution to sports by the American Sports Club of San Francisco. Nearly 500 turned out at the Hyatt on Union Square to join in the tribute for one of the charter members of pro football's Hall of Fame.

Five other Hall of Famers who had been with the San Francisco 49ers were also honored by the fledgling club in its first year of existence. Former players Y.A. Tittle, Hugh McElhenny, Joe Perry and Leo Nomellini and past coach Jack Christiansen, now head coach at Stanford, were presented with plaques. The audience was given a trip to the past, thanks to films sent from the pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

THERE WERE SHOTS of McElhenny and Perry breaking away for touchdown runs and Tittle throwing TD passes. The film clips included some of the big tackles by Nomellini and interceptions of Christiansen in his playing days with the Detroit Lions. But there were no movies of Ernie. The Hall of Fame people would love to have some of his action recorded on film, but none exists, or if it does it's a very well kept secret.

Program chairman Alessandro Baccari was able to come up with some slides of Nevers after some searching, so the action had to be in one's imagination, or if he was fortunate enough to have seen Nevers in his playing days, in his memory.

Nevers captained the Stanford teams of 1924 and '25 and was an All-America performer the latter year. He led Stanford against Notre Dame's famous Four Horsemen in the Rose Bowl of 1925 and playing with two still-healing broken ankles, gained 117 yards in that game, more than the combined total of the Horsemen. But Stanford lost, 27-10.

HE PLAYED PRO football with the Duluth Eskimos and then the Chicago Cards. In one game, in 1929, against the Chicago Bears, Ernie set a record that still stands - 40 points scored. He scored six touchdowns and kicked four extra points.

Nevers also played professional baseball with the St. Louis Browns of the American League. In 1927 when Babe Ruth hit 60 home runs, two of them were off Nevers.

He played his last professional game in 1932 in the Knights of Columbus charity game at Kezar Stadium in San Francisco, and suffered a broken wrist. The playing days of one of football's greatest were over.

The enshrinement into the Hall of Fame came

Drake '5' Rallies To Win Opener

For the past two or three years, Drake High School's basketball teams have been known for their hustle, scrappiness and lack of height. Last night, in the non-league season opener, it was more of the same as the Pirates outlasted visiting Balboa of San Francisco, 61-54.

Marin County teams split two other season opening games against San Francisco opponents, with Tamalpais edging Galileo, 53-50, and San Rafael falling to Washington, 50-44. Against teams to the north, Terra Linda beat St. Patrick's in Vallejo, 50-47, and San Marin walloped Justin of Napa, 82-57.

The Pirates, who fought their way to last year's Marin County Athletic League title with a short team, but a lot of speed, demonstrated before about 700 happy fans yesterday that they're at it again. Several times throughout the game, they fell behind by one or two points to the taller Buccaneers, but came back to lead by as much as five less than a minute later.

Center Dan Trimble took over the game's most crucial rally in the final minutes. With Balboa leading, 54-51, at around the three minute mark, Trimble scored three straight baskets to give his team the lead, 57-54, with 2:10 showing on the clock.

Pirate Eddie Joe Chavez led the game's scoring with 19 points, although he played only

Stanford Trio In Shrine Tilt

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Quarterback Mike Boryla, kicker Rod Garcia and center Bill Reid, solid pro candidates who helped Stanford to a 7-4 record this past season, today were named to the West squad for the annual Shrine East-West game Dec. 29 at Candlestick Park.

The three additions gave the West a total of 13 players named to date. The East team includes 10 players as of the moment.

Boryla wound up the 1973 season as the best passer in the Pacific-8 with 17 scoring throws and a 54.7 proficiency rating. Most pro scouts think he will be among the first five players drafted by National Football League teams next January.

Garcia tied the National Collegiate Athletic Association single season field goal kicking record with 18 this year and had 42 in three years, which is a record. In addition, he booted two more in Rose Bowl competition, including the game winner over Michigan two years ago.

At 6-3 and 240 pounds, Reid has been a standout player in the Stanford offense line for three years.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Bumbry Named Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Speedy Al Bumbry, the Baltimore Orioles' pesky "bumblebee" who was supposed to spend this season in the minor leagues, was named the American League's Rookie of the Year for 1973 today by a landslide vote of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

A Vietnam veteran, the 26-year-old Bumbry is the oldest player to win the award in 10 years. Gary Peters of the Chicago White Sox also won it at 26. Lou Piniella of Kansas City was 26 when he received the award in 1969 but he played most of the season at 25.

Bumbry, who teamed with Rich Coggins to add speed to the Baltimore lineup against right-handed pitchers, won it with surprising ease. He got 13 ½ votes while Pedro Garcia of Milwaukee was second with three votes.

Pitchers Doc Medich of New York and Steve Busby of Kansas City and catcher Darrell Porter of Milwaukee each received two votes. Coggins got 1 ½ votes to complete the balloting.

The voting was done by 24 members of the Baseball Writers—two from each league city. Three writers voted for Bumbry and Coggins as an entry, giving each of them one-half vote.

Bumbry is currently playing winter ball in Venezuela.

It's unusual for a platooned player to win the rookie award but while Bumbry did make a major contribution to Baltimore's successive season, there wasn't exactly a bumper crop of rookies in the American League in 1973.

It also was surprising that Bumbry won by such a big margin over Coggins because their statistics were almost identical. Many Baltimore observers thought the two players deserved to share the award.

Here are the respective stats for Bumbry and Coggins:

	ab	h	hr	rbi	avg
Bumbry	356	120	7	34	.337
Coggins	389	124	7	41	.319

It was the hitting and running of Bumbry and Coggins that helped carry the Orioles to their fourth Eastern Division title in the last five years after the team had faded in 1972.

A 5-foot-8, 175-pounder, Bumbry combined with Coggins, who's almost a look-alike at 5-8 and 165, to add a new dimension to the Baltimore attack with their speed and hustle.

Bumbry didn't play baseball at Virginia State College until his senior year. He starred in basketball at the Petersburg, Va. institution. An obscure 11th round draft choice by the Orioles in 1969, he had to be talked into signing by Oriole scout Dick Bowie.

AL BUMBRY
Wins voting

Since he was a ROTC lieutenant and nad his military commitment ahead of him, Bumbry didn't think he had a baseball future. But Bowie talked him into giving it a shot and Bumbry played 35 games in Stockton in 1969—hitting only .178—before he spent two years on active duty in the Army.

In 1971, he got out of the Army and resumed his baseball career, getting in 66 games and hitting .336. He hit .347 in 26 games with Asheville and .345 in 108 games with Rochester in 1972. The Orioles brought him up at the end of the 1972 season and he hit .364 in only nine games.

Weaver admits he was planning to send Bumbry back to Rochester for another year this season but his excellent play in spring training changed his mind.

Basketball Shooting Session Set Saturday

Hank Slider, a renowned basketball shooting instructor, will coach Marin County players in his specialty Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon, in the San Rafael High School gymnasium.

The free clinic is co-sponsored by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department and Bethlehem Steel Corp., San Francisco.

League Honor For Nine Players

Five members of the Bay Counties League champion Mount Tamalpais soccer team and four players from the Marin Academy were included on the 15-man all league team selected last night by league coaches at California School for the Deaf in Berkeley.

Mount Tam players were forwards George Ai and Ned Pinger and backs Eric Chilton, Neil King and Matt Stone. From Marin Academy were forwards Hunt Conrad and Bill Spencer and backs Henry Lennehan and Dave Tarantino.

Mount Tamalpais won the league championship with a record of 6-1-1.

Piano Mover Concepts On Mounting Engine

Have you ever marvelled at the apparent ease with which piano movers hustle a baby grand?

If you have, you have probably observed that the facility with which they operate does not derive from monumental strength, but from an ability to use leverage and tools to their maximum advantage. Piano movers also plan ahead, and are willing to cooperate with any person or circumstance that can help them.

TAKE A TIP from the movers when you are handling your outboard motor, particularly when you are putting it on the transom of your boat.

For example, no boater even remotely familiar with the movers' techniques would ever board a beached craft over the bows and walk the length of the boat carrying the motor aft to the transom. There's too much of a chance that he'll fall.

Instead, turn the boat around and pull the stern up on land. Then set the motor in place while standing on "terra firma."

If the boat is alongside a low dock or float, don't lean out over the water to lower a motor in place. Instead, get into the boat, stand in the stern in a position from which you won't have to shift your feet, and then lift the motor aboard and set it in place.

WHEN YOUR BOAT is tied to a wharf or a dock that is chest high, your first impulse might be to stand in the boat, swing the motor off the dock and bend over with it.

A professional mover would wince at such a thing. When held high, a relatively heavy object is difficult to control, and leverage is against you. It's safer to lower the motor on the anchor line.

If the dock is only waist high, however, sit in the stern and have someone pass the motor down to you by its carrying handle until it rests on the boat. Then you can control it.

Mounting a large outboard on a trailered boat is easy since you have an enormous lever at your disposal, namely the trailer itself. Have an adult hold the motor vertical, with the skeg resting on a board or the ground. Then raise the trailer tongue high enough to let the boat transom slip under the motor's clamp screws.

AS THE TONGUE is lowered, the motor is picked up by the boat without much muscular effort.

This operation, and launching too, can be made easier in many instances by a trailer with a split tongue, sometimes called a tilting tongue.

The tongue is jointed in the middle, and, by pulling a pin, the boat can be tilted back without unhitching it from the car. Several trailer manufacturers make this type of trailer, and, in shallow launching spots, it can be a big help. It is well worth considering when buying a new trailer.

Here are a couple of questions I was asked this fall:

Q. How heavy are the biggest outboards?

A. The top line motors for 1974 are from 115 to 150 horsepower and weigh 245 to 261 pounds.

Q. I carry a fishing motor in my trunk and it rattles around. What can I do?

A. Use a partly inflated inner tube to lay the motor on. This cushions any impacts, and the resulting friction with the rubber holds it steady on turns and rough water.

CHICAGO WINS, 123-117

Bulls' Free Throws Sink Warriors

CHICAGO (UPI) — The style of play helped the Chicago Bulls produce a 123-117 victory, their 16th in the last 19 games, over the Golden State Warriors last night, Coach Dick Motta said today.

The Warriors hit 52 field goals compared to 43 for the Bulls and Chicago made up the difference and more with 37 free throws in 47 attempts compared to 13-of-18 for the Warriors.

"They take a lot of those long outside jumpers," Motta said, "and you're not going to foul anybody on those. We drive and play inside and get fouled and I thought we should have had more free throws."

It was a close contest all the way and Coach Al Attles of the Warriors said, "it's like a war out there" when the Bulls and Warriors play. Those were two real good teams and I thought we played a good game. It was the fifth game of a tough road trip and we won the first four so I can't complain."

Rick Barry contributed 27 points and Cazzie Russell 26 for the Warriors and Attles said, "they are playing the way I know they can play. They're better than last year but so is the whole team."

The defeat stopped the Warriors from tying their club record of seven straight victories on the road and Motta said, "they can't play any better than that."

Chet Walker was the hero of the game with 39 points, including 15 free throws without a miss for a season total of 143 out of 153 and a .935 accuracy percentage, tying the Warriors' Jeff Mullins for the league lead.

NBA ROUNDUP

It's 'Bingo' At Buzzer As Cavaliers Triumph

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

There was only one second showing on the clock last night when the Cleveland Arena announcer screamed "Bingo" and the Cleveland Cavaliers had their third victory in their last four starts.

Bobby (Bingo) Smith took a pass from Lenny Wilkens and let fly with a 12-footer that swished through the nets to give the Cavaliers a 120-118 victory over the Seattle Supersonics.

In other National Basketball Association games, Chicago topped Golden State 123-117, the Houston Rockets downed the Phoenix Suns 125-111, the Atlanta Hawks whipped the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 129-110 and the Milwaukee Bucks trimmed the Buffalo Braves 115-110.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 36 points carried the Bucks over Buffalo, spoiling the Braves' bid for their first victory ever over Milwaukee.

FINLEY'S CAR RECOVERED

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police yesterday recovered Oakland Athletics owner Charles O. Finley's stolen 1973 black Cadillac stripped of everything but a few personal mementos — even the car's four doors.

Police said the car was found in a vacant South Side lot described as a "favorite dumping grounds" for car thieves.

Finley said the car had been stolen Saturday night from an alley behind his Michigan Avenue office in Chicago.

NHL ROUNDUP

Islanders Gain Sweet Victory

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

For coach Al Arbour, it was a "sweet win."

For general manager Bill Torrey, it was "just two points."

Any way you slice it, it was the first win ever for the New York Islanders over the Atlanta Flames and it was enough to move the Islanders out of last place in the National Hockey League's East Division.

The Islanders and Flames both began play last season and in five meetings between the two expansion clubs, the best the New York entry could manage was one tie against four losses. In their first meeting this season, the two teams played to a tie but third period goals by Dave Lewis and highly touted rookie Denis Potvin last night gave the Islanders their 4-2 triumph.

"We're working much better as a team and things are really looking up," said Arbour after his team's win over the Flames moved them one point ahead of Vancouver and into seventh place in the East.

"It felt pretty good beating them since they had a three game winning streak," said Potvin, who in addition to getting New York's final goal, also ussisted on Lewis' marker.

Ralph Stewart and Lorne Henning tallied the Islanders' other goals while Keith McCreary and Curt Bennett scored for the Flames who remained tied with Chicago for second place in the West Division, three points behind Philadelphia.

In the only other NHL game, Vancouver tied St. Louis 2-2.

Bobby Schmautz' ninth goal of the season, coming late in the second period while Vancouver had a player in the penalty box, enabled the Canucks to tie St. Louis. Schmautz took the puck from Paulin Bordeleau in center ice while teammate Dave Dunn was serving a penalty for interference and faked Blues' goalie John Davidson before scoring.

Jocelyn Guevremont tallied Vancouver's other goal on a power play while Gary Sabourin and Floyd Thomson scored for the Blues.

ABA ROUNDUP

Terrible Evening For The Squires

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Nothing went right for the Virginia Squires last night.

Virginia arrived almost an hour late for its game against the Tams at Memphis when its plane was forced to land at Nashville because of bad weather. The Squires took a bus from Nashville to Memphis but all they got for their troubles was a 125-99 loss that dropped them into last place in the American Basketball Association's East Division, one half game behind the Tams.

Rookies Larry Finch, who starred for Memphis State, and Charles Edge, who played his college ball at Lemoyne-Owen College in Memphis, led the Tams to victory. Finch scored 20 points while Edge had 19 points and 15 rebounds.

Veterans George Thompson, Will Jones and John Baum each scored 20 points for Memphis while George Gervin led the weary Squires with 25 points.

Elsewhere in the ABA, Indiana downed San Diego 129-117 and Utah beat Denver 103-91.

Burly George McGinnis, held to five points in the first half, finished with a game-high 29 to lead Indiana past San Diego. Bob Netolicky tallied 24 and Bill Keller added 22 for the winners. San Diego, which led 100-92 going into the final quarter, was topped by rookie Dwight Lamar's 19 points.

James Jones and Willie Wise each scored 25 points for Utah in the Stars' win over Denver that moved them into a tie with San Antonio for third place in the West. Dave Robisch led the division-leading Rockets with 19 points.

Seals' Meloche Says Minnesota Is Tricky Team

OAKLAND (UPI) — Goalie Gilles Meloche of the California Golden Seals says that Minnesota, his team's foe here tonight, is a tricky team.

"Their favorite play," says the 23-year-old goaltender, "is to take the puck behind the net and pass it out in front. So I'll have to be aware of whether the puck is behind me or at the side."

The North Stars scored six goals off the usually tough Meloche in their last meeting but a Seals win tonight could move the last-place Seals into a tie with Los Angeles one point back of the Stars.

Ex-Seal Dennis Hextall leads Minnesota with five goals and 19 assists to rank eighth in NHL scoring.

Meanwhile, Seals' defenseman Terry Murray's leg injury has now been diagnosed as a slight fracture of the fibula. He will not require a cast, but will be unable to skate for three weeks.

Free Film Available On Harness Racing

MONTREAL (AP) — "This Is Harness Racing," a new U.S. Trotting Assn. film was unveiled in Montreal. USTA vice president Stan Bergstein says it's the best film yet produced for showing to groups not familiar with the sport.

The film includes some excellent stop-action shots showing the difference between a trotter and a pacer. The film is available on a free-loan basis from the USTA's Chicago office, 333 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Investigation Begins In Barnes Mistrial

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UPI) — An investigation has begun into circumstances surrounding declaration of a mistrial in proceedings against Providence College basketball star Marvin Barnes.

The trial of Barnes, who was accused of assaulting a former teammate with a tire iron last year, was discontinued by Judge Eugene G. Gallant last Friday after newspaper clippings concerning the trial were found in the jury room.

Superior Court Judge Joseph R. Weisberger said he wants to know if the clippings got to the jurors because of a "simple mistake" or whether some impropriety was involved.

Barnes had allegedly assaulted reserve center Larry Ketvertis outside a college dining hall following a practice session. The plaintiff's father, Edmund L. Ketvirtis, said after the mistrial was declared Friday, he would ask Attorney General Richard J. Israel to investigate the matter.

Israel said a retrial would be scheduled as promptly as possible, probably in January.

Weisberger said evidence of any impropriety would be referred to the attorney general's office.

The clippings had been presented to the court by Barnes' lawyers but were not admitted as evidence. Court clerk Dennis Flynn said he assumed the clippings somehow became mixed with admitted evidence which was accessible to the jurors.

Sharks End Long Drought

The 12th time turned out to be the lucky time for the Los Angeles Sharks.

The Sharks, who had not beaten Winnipeg in 11 previous World Hockey Association games, finally did it last night when Brian MacDonald scored at 1:59 of sudden death overtime for a 5-4 victory over the Jets.

The Sharks twice blew two-goal leads before MacDonald's 12th goal of the year earned them their first-ever win over the Bobby Hull-led Jets.

Los Angeles took a 2-0 lead on goals by J.P. LeBlanc and Marc Tardif but Winnipeg needed only 69 seconds to tie the game on goals by Dunc Rousseau and Dan Spring. Tardif and Gary Veneruzzo put the Sharks ahead 4-2 but third period goals by Fran Huck and Joe Zanussi sent it into overtime.

In the only other game, the Toronto Toros got single goals in each period from Gavin Kirk, Carl Brewer and Tom Martin to defeat the Quebec Nordiques 3-1.

Wayne Carleton, the Toros' leading scorer with 29 points, assisted on the tying and insurance goals while Gilles Gratton kept out all but one of Quebec's 28 shots on goal.

49ers' Taylor Criticizes Booing Spectators, Press

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Cornerback Bruce Taylor of the San Francisco 49ers, who has been booed on occasion this season, says the news media and fans "don't know what's happening out there."

"The only person I have to satisfy is (coach) Dick Nolan," said the 1970 Rookie of the Year. "The only time the booing bothered me was the first time I heard it when I was introduced.

"Then I realized 90 per cent of the people knew nothing about football. I've been booed all year and I'm having my best year.

"Most of the fans don't even know what's happening out there and neither do the writers. But you write your stories and the people believe everything they read."

Nolan came to the defense of Taylor, who has been maligned for allowing some receivers to catch passes behind him.

"He's playing very well," said Nolan. "He's worked a lot harder this year and he's starting to learn certain things it takes a guy a few years to learn."

The 49ers run into longtime quarterback nemesis Romar Gabriel this Sunday at Candlestick Park when the Philadelphia Eagles visit.

J.V. Basketball

VALLEJO — Mike Martin scored 15 points and doled out five assists last night as Terra Linda High School's junior varsity basketball team whipped St. Patrick's, 57-31, here yesterday.

Sonoma State Cagers Plan To Be Unfriendly Hosts For Tournament

Sonoma State College should prove to be a rude host this weekend, as the Cossacks are favored to capture their second straight Coca-Cola Classic basketball championship.

The tournament will be held at the Rohnert Park campus Friday and Saturday nights, with California State College, Dominguez Hills, Western Baptist College of Oregon and Humboldt State University the other teams in the tournament. Game times will be 7:30 and 9 p.m. both nights.

Sonoma, which opens with Dominguez Hills Friday night at 9 p.m., used last year's tournament to serve notice that it would be a team to reckon with in the Far Western Conference race — which they won.

The Cossacks will be returning six men from last year's team, all of whom started at one time during the season. Steve Tiedeman, the FWC player of the year in 1973, leads a guard contingent that includes Tom Fitchie and Jim Bristol.

The forward spots will be manned by Bill Belander, who was second-team all-league, Ron John and Dan Heien.

Last year the missing ingredient for the Cossacks was a lack of height. It appears that problem has been solved with the addition of junior college transfers Bob LeBrun and Dave Long.

LeBrun, a 6-foot-8 senior from Palomar College in San Diego, played one year at the University of Idaho and had several scholarship offers. Long, a 6-7 junior from Healdsburg, played for Santa Rosa Junior College two seasons.

Not too much is known about the Dominguez Hills cagers, but Cossack coach Bill Trumbo said, "They are largely underclassmen. They didn't have a team last year, but in our only previous meeting with them (in 1971), they beat us by 24 points."

Western Baptist finished 6-20 last year, but coach Lou Black looks forward to this season with "great anticipation." Western Baptist is led by Jon Hills and Dave Dunn.

Humboldt finished in the Far Western Conference cellar last year, but despite the loss of all-league guard Carl Massey, Nick Niclai's Lumberjacks could give the Cossacks their stiffest tournament competition. The leading returnee for Humboldt is forward Willie Pugh.

Petaluma City Hoop Title At Stake This Weekend

The Petaluma Basketball Classic will make its debut this weekend, as four southern Sonoma high schools will be battling it out at Petaluma High School for what is essentially the city championship.

Essentially, because Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park is an intra-district, but not intra-city, rival. The other three schools are Petaluma, Casa Grande and St. Vincent.

The tournament will be held Friday and Saturday nights, with game times at 7 and 9 p.m.

Petaluma, which suffered through a miserable 8-18 season last year, appears to be the favorite to take the initial title. The Trojans return seven letterman, five of whom started at one time or another last year.

At guards coach Mark Reischling will start speedsters Dan Pacheco and junior Dan Aldridge. The forward positions will be played by the Mungle brothers, Gary and Kriss, with 6-foot-5 Bill McDonald and 6-6 Sid Shired sharing the center spot.

Rancho Cotate has four returning starters, but will strongly feel the absence of Sonoma County League most valuable player Marshall Brant from last year's 10-12 team.

Coach Mike Francis will hope to fill Brant's shoes with two 6-4 seniors, Larry Hoffman and Roger Marshall. The starting guards will be junior Chris Callinan and Mike Sanchez, with Kent Holman and Scott Wlodarczyk at forwards.

Casa Grande, which officially enters the SCL this year, could be the surprise team of the tournament. Under Dennis Casarotti last year, the all-sophomore Gauchos compiled a 13-2 record against junior varsity teams.

The Gauchos are led by guard Tom Davini and forward Jon Moyer, but center Scott VanBuskirk is also a scoring threat. The other starters are Dan Lutz at guard and Larry Thomas at the other forward spot.

St. Vincent had the best record of all the schools last year, 16-8, but the Mustangs were also the hardest hit by graduation with the loss of four starters.

Coach Ed Major will still have a good team, though, with starting forward Dan Tocchini back, along with Tom Lounibos, Mike Murphy, Lynn Souza and Mark Pickett, who all saw plenty of action last year.

Petaluma '5' Rips Sonoma In Opener

Petaluma High School started its 1973-74 basketball season on an explosive note last night with an 88-62 drubbing of visiting non-league foe Sonoma High School.

After Sonoma got the first basket of the game, the Trojans reeled off 13 unanswered points to take a lead which they built upon the rest of the night.

In other southern Sonoma non-league high school basketball last night, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park edged host Vanden, 54-53, Tomales fell to host Cloverdale, 62-46; and visiting St. Vincent of Petaluma blasted Geyserville, 68-39.

Petaluma was led by junior Kriss Mungle, who converted some super moves into 20 points, and the guard duo of Dan Pacheco and Dan Aldridge, who scored 19 and 17 points, respectively. Sid Shired added 13 points in his first varsity start.

"Our guard combination is really good," Trojan coach Mark Reischling commented after the game. "I don't think there's a better pair (of guards) in the league right now. They really kept the pressure on."

Besides scoring 36 points, Pacheco and Aldridge led the Petaluma defense which forced numerous turnovers and played a large part in the Dragons' 35 per cent shooting effort from the floor.

The Trojans, on the other hand, were extremely hot from the field, especially in the second half when they shot a blistering 76 per cent.

A Raider Nearing His Peak

OAKLAND (UPI) — Running back Charlie Smith of the Oakland Raiders says he has finally reached his peak 11 games into a 14-game season.

"This year I began slow because I did a lot of distance running in the off-season and I didn't touch the ball," said Smith who is averaging 5.3 yards a carry. "There's a lot of things I didn't do until training camp began and that's really too late."

However, Raider Coach John Madden thinks the former Utah star may be a little hard on himself.

"A running back has a lot of things to do," said Madden. "He has pass routes, blocking assignments, a lot of responsibilities. Charlie has been doing it all well."

Smith, who has 3,045 career rushing yards in his sixth season, says he's glad the Raiders have someone as talented as Clarence Davis to back him up.

"If I'm having a bad day, I'd hate to be out there embarrassing myself or the Raiders," said Smith, a 9.6 speedster who once beat Olympic gold medalist Jimmy Hines while at Castlemont High. "If I can't do it, I'm glad when Clarence can."

Big Ten Is Sued By Michigan Man

DETROIT (UPI) — Gerald Faye sat down and tried to explain to his son Sunday afternoon why Ohio State would be going to the Rose Bowl this year instead of Michigan, but he could find no logical explanation.

So the 42-year-old political science instructor decided to file suit against the Big Ten in an effort to prevent Ohio State from playing in the annual spectacle in Pasadena, Calif., New Year's Day.

The class action suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Detroit yesterday and Federal Judge Fred W. Kaess ordered a show cause hearing on Dec. 6.

Faye said there was "not a reasonable process taken" for deciding the Big Ten's bowl representative.

"You just don't make a big decision like that by telephone," he said.

The Big Ten athletic directors were polled by telephone Sunday after the 10-10 tie in Saturday's game left Michigan and Ohio State sharing the conference championship.

"The directors had no sense of how many first downs Ohio State had or had not made in the first quarter when they were polled," he said. "There were films of the game ready Saturday night which they did not see. Only two directors were present at the game. On what basis did they sit down and arrive at a rational decision?"

Faye said he would like to see the athletic directors conduct another meeting under public scrutiny.

"They can still decide what they want to decide," he said. "It's just a matter of having it in the public view. These guys can't operate in a back room like some kind of a club. It's like this lack of confidence in national politics—you've got to have something to inspire faith in the decision."

Little League Plaque Is Presented To Joan

NEW YORK (AP) — When the New York Mets closed their regular 1973 season before 54,701 fans at Shea Stadium, Mrs. Joan Hodges received a plaque on behalf of the Gil Hodges Little League.

The league was named after the late manager of the Mets, Gil Hodges, by his attorney, Sid Loberfeld, who organized the league.

Newly Organized Baseball League To Contain 6 Teams From Marin

A thirst for competitive local semi-pro baseball action will be quenched next year when play begins for the California Baseball Association's Marin division.

In announcing the six-team format of the Class AA league, heretofore based solely in San Francisco, Commissioner Barney DeBisschop said: "We'll have a competitive Marin league next year. We'll have practice games in late February running all the way through April. We'll have league games starting in June. This is something that's been needed here for about three years."

The Marin Suns, leaders of S.F. winter league play at 7-0, with three contests left will be joined by the Marin Merchants, Corte Madera Cardinals and Sausalito's Big G Super plus two other teams in the Marin array.

The Novato Knickerbockers of the Sacramento Rural League and Corte Madera Chrysler Plymouth of the San Francisco triple A winter league are being invited into the Marin setup, which was approved by the league board of directors Oct. 2 in San Francisco.

Teams will play "twice around in their own division, plus three games at home and three games away with San Francisco teams," according to DeBisschop.

The Marinwood resident, who was resident of the Marin Rod and Gun Club in 1957, added that the champions of the San Francisco and Marin divisions would have a league playoff prior to Labor Day to determine the area's representative in the second annual Northern California Baseball Championships. The title tourney would have teams from Oakland, San Jose, San Francisco along with at-large selections from such places as Santa Rosa and Fremont.

However, the three-year veteran mogul cautioned that a Marin ballfield must be obtained. "We've contacted Albert Field officials about use of their park, but we have nothing definite yet. If we can't get Albert Field," he continued, "we'll try for a municipal park like San Anselmo or a high school diamond."

DeBisschop is confident the playing field issue will be resolved, enabling Marinites to see top-flight semi-pro play of the Marin teams along with the San Francisco league delegations.

The Sunday loop features: Galu Realty, New Pisa Dons, Bayview Players, S.F. Pirates, Napa Veterans, S.F. Mets, S.F. Senators, Dolphins, International Order of Foresters, S.F. Post Office, Montrose Chemical and South San Francisco. Associate members, who play practice games March through May, are Palo Alto and Burlingame.

College Coaches Paced By Kush

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Frank Kush of Arizona State replaces retiring Nebraska coach Bob Devaney in the list of "Top 20 Coaches." A native of Windber, Pa., Kush has seen his teams win 121 games, lose 33 and tie one in his 15 years with the Sun Devils. His winning percentage is .783.

Devaney, now Nebraska's athletic director, had a percentage of .806 for 16 years until retiring last fall.

Behind Kush in the new percentage table are Bo Schembechler of Michigan, Darrell Royal of Texas, Bear Bryant of Alabama, Woody Hayes of Ohio State, Charlie McClendon of LSU, John McKay of Southern Cal, Frank Broyles of Arkansas, Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame and Shug Jordon of Auburn.

half the game as Coach Pete Hayward shuffled his early-season lineup. Trimble finished with 16 points, while Balboa's Vincent Green also had 16.

It was Mike Dinehart's day for Tam as the Indians began their season in Mill Valley with a close win. Dinehart had 23 points and 14 rebounds.

Tam squandered a nine-point lead it had held most of the first half and led by only three at intermission. The rest of the game was nip and tuck until senior guard Bill Clarke put through the game's final three free-throws to win it for the Indians.

San Rafael fell victim to its own mistakes in its loss to a veteran squad from visiting Washington. The Bulldogs turned the ball over 30 times and sent the Eagles to the free-throw line 25 times.

Byron Stewart was the lone bright spot for the Bulldogs, scoring 18 points and pulling down 17 rebounds.

Terra Linda gave its first year coach Fred Arnold a victory as Doug Carlisle scored all the Trojans' nine fourth quarter points.

San Marin got double-figure scoring from five players in its romp over Justin, which coach Andy Frauenhofer called "a great team effort and a great way to open the season."

Five-foot-seven playmaking guard Dave Harris led the way with 13 points, while Bruce Vollert and Skip Starnes had 12 each, Bruce Smith 11 and Terry Korn 10.

Tennessee State Wins Small College Grid Title

Combined AP & UPI

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — It's one down and one to go for big John Merritt of Tennessee State.

He's been wanting two things for a long time and, yesterday, he finally got one of them: the National Small College Football Championship.

Tennessee State was voted the title in the college division by UPI's board of coaches and Merritt leaned back in his chair and waved one of his chain of long cigars in approval.

"It's been a long time coming," Merritt boomed in his foghorn voice. "I'd been disappointed that we hadn't been No. 1 before," said Merritt, who packs 270 pounds on his 6-foot-1 frame. "My other great disappointment was never being able to get Coach of the Year from the American Football Coaches Association."

Only one other black coach, Jake Gaither of Florida A&M, has won it before.

Football

PHILADELPHIA — Lou Ferry resigned as head football coach at Villanova University.

LOS ANGELES — Foster Anderson, football coach at Los Angeles State College for the past three years, was fired.

IOWA CITY, Iowa — The board in control of athletics at the University of Iowa unanimously accepted athletic director Bump Elliott's recommendation that football coach Frank Lauterbur be fired yesterday.

Lauterbur announced one week ago that he had been fired by Elliott for refusing to make changes in his assistant coaching staff and the board's vote was merely a formality.

Track-Field

AUSTIN, Tex. — Within a space of a month next year, the University of Texas will host the NCAA's Track and Field Championships and a Russian-U.S. track meet featuring athletes from both nations under the age of 19.

The NCAA track meet will be held next June 6-8. The U.S.-Soviet meet, announced yesterday, will be held June 28-29.

Bowling

AKRON, Ohio — The 1973 Professional Bowlers Association tour still has one more event to go, but Don McCune, Munster, Ind., has already wrapped up the top money winner's spot.

McCune, who got $1,450 for his 15th-place finish last Saturday in the Brunswick World Open at Chicago, has earned $67,950 so far this year. Jim Godman, Lorain, Ohio, is second with $57,808.

Boxing

LOS ANGELES — Heavyweight champion George Foreman says he's ready for another title defense. He just can't find another opponent.

"Six weeks from now is when I want to fight," Foreman said. "That's enough time to prepare for a style.

Golf

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. — Jack Nicklaus and Ben Crenshaw were early favorites as play began today in the $150,000 Walt Disney Golf Classic, last stop on the 1973 Professional Golfers Association tour.

Tennis

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., defeated defending champion Evonne Goolagong of Australia 6-3, 6-3 to claim the women's singles title in the South Africa Open Tennis Tournament.

UPI Picks All-Coast Grid Team

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Powerhouse running backs Kermit Johnson of UCLA and Anthony Davis of Southern California and pro-oriented quarterback Mike Boryla of Stanford headed the 1973 United Press International All Coast college football team announced today.

The three plus running back Don Reynolds of Oregon, wide receiver Lynn Swann of Southern Cal and center Greg Krpalek of Oregon State were the most popular offensive players picked on the mythical team for UPI by a panel of sports writers, sportscasters and coaches.

On the defensive unit, linebacker Richard Wood and defensive back Artemus Parker of Southern Cal, end Pat Donovan of Stanford and tackle Reggie Lewis of Oregon were the top vote getters.

Rounding out the offensive unit were tight end Russ Francis of Oregon, tackles Booker Brown of Southern Cal and Al Oliver of UCLA, and guards Steve Osterman of Washington State and Steve Klosterman of UCLA.

The remainder of the defensive team was made up of end Fred McNeill of UCLA, tackle Dave Pear of Washington, linebackers Gordon Riegel of Stanford and Gary Larsen of Washington State and backs Steve Donnelly of Oregon, Randy Poltl of Stanford and John Nanoski of UCLA.

in 1963. Nevers is alongside Red Grange, Jim Thorpe and Bronko Nagurski, a very deserving place for Ernie.

HE HAD A GOOD TIME last night. There was pleasure in his voice and that same bright twinkle in his eyes. "I want to thank all you people who came out to see some old jocks tonight," was the way he started. He praised today's players and didn't say any of that stuff about comparing today's players with those of his day.

He recalled that Rose Bowl when he played with those broken ankles. "Pop Warner, the coach, told me I was going to start, so that was that," he said. The medical practices in football were not what they are today, so they fashioned an aluminum cast for one of Ernie's ankles. "And they used tape and an inner tube of an automobile stretched from my foot to the knee. We took the cast off 10 days before that game in Pasadena, and I played." Indeed he did.

It was a grand night for the Hall of Famers, and an especially grand night for Nevers. Congratulations, Ernie. It was well deserving.

Stock Prices Ahead During Early Hours

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices moved higher in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange today, but during the first two hours were at levels lower than they were earlier in the session.

In the news, Arab leaders said if Israel does not withdraw from all land occupied since the 1967 war, they would fight with all means, including the use of oil as a political weapon.

Earlier, UPI quoted Arab political informants as saying Arab leaders have taken a tough, united stand on using the oil weapon against Israel's supporters.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

How To Read Balance Sheet

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Could you give me some pointers on understanding a balance sheet? What are the important figures? — G.D.

A. You have asked a very pertinent question since balance sheets reveal vital information about a corporation's financial condition. First you should check the size of a corporation's long-term debt in relation to its stockholders' equity — value of common and preferred stock. The number of common and preferred shares multiplied by their price will give you the shareholders' equity. In utilities and other capital-intensive industries these figures are generally about 50 per cent-50 per cent; in other industries equity should predominate by a good margin.

A second key figure is current asset to liabilities ratio. Current assets consist of cash, governments, receivables, inventories, prepaid expenses and deposits; in other words, assets which are readily converted to cash. Current liabilities include accounts, notes and all debt payments due within a year, deposits received, federal and state taxes.

A financially healthy corporation in most industries should have current assets at least double current liabilities, a higher ratio within reason is desirable. If the proportion is excessive, it could indicate that management was not utilizing capital effectively. The year-to-year variations in inventory should also be noted, since a sharp rise in inventories may necessitate selling goods at distress prices.

A further refinement of the current ratio produces a ratio called acid test. In this, the current assets are reduced by the value of inventory and the resulting figure divided by current liabilities. In this instance a financially stable company would generally have a one-to-one balance or better between the two figures. Net working capital is often cited in financial writing and simply refers to the balance left after current liabilities are subtracted from current assets.

Because requirements here vary so from one industry to another, and often between firms in the same field, no general rule is applicable. This abbreviated discussion should help shed light on an illuminating source of information.

The Supermarket Delicatessen Booms

MINNEAPOLIS — Supermarket delicatessens are bumping heads with the fast food chains for a slice of the market, and if the present trend continues, they will realize a sizeable chunk, according to Creative Center Inc. of Minneapolis, producer of audio-visual training programs for the retail food industry.

Creative Center Inc. reports that by 1975, about 50 per cent of all American meals will be prepared outside the home.

"Since the purchase of prepared meals cuts into food store sales, delicatessens are the supermarket's way of competing for these sales dollars," says Robert D. Fuller, President of Creative Center, Inc.

Fuller adds that nearly 24 per cent of all supermarkets in the U.S. today have deli departments and the number is increasing rapidly.

Why the upsurge in the deli service operations?

"The average housewife, who for years has been shopping at fast food outlets, has found certain limitations in variety. But now the delis offer her a wider selection of quality offerings," Fuller says.

Another reason is that deli departments can yield substantial profits to supermarkets caught in the cost-price squeeze. A well-run deli operation in a supermarket can yield gross profits averaging between 45 and 65 per cent or 20 to 30 per cent after labor. Furthermore, the delis appear to boost store traffic without cutting into the sale of other items.

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you have the sinking feeling that everyone but you is bailing out of the stock market? Well, you're wrong. Your companions include some of the most esteemed, the most elite of Wall Street.

They are convinced that while an Oriental rug has been yanked from beneath the American economy it will soon land on its feet, still stepping forward.

The trouble for the market, it appears, is that some of these well-heeled investor intellects are throwing in more words than money, and this isn't the kind of a market that can be cajoled. It must be shown.

Nevertheless, for what it's worth — and right now that seems to be very little — a good many analysts and some investors are talking confidently.

The Consensus of Insiders has turned bullish. This is a forecasting system based on the market activities of insiders, such as officers and directors. It's latest signal is for an upturn within two to five weeks.

Just as bullish is Wright Bankers' Service, which guides the fortunes of many important bank trusts. John Wright, its analyst, is a bit chagrined by the current "extremism," but sticks to his forecast of an advance.

"We believe that the current stock market represents an unprecedented extreme of unreasoned pessimism and subjective evaluation," declares Wright. It will be "followed promptly by a sharp and sustained advance."

Some of the other forecasters are more selective in their bullishness, urging investors to seek special situations, stocks that might benefit from the oil cutback, overlooked stocks and the like.

Standard & Poor's publication, "The Outlook," foresees four groups of stocks as "particularly well situated." The groups: nuclear energy, offshore drilling, rail transportation and property-liability insurance.

The possibilities for nuclear energy and offshore drillers is obvious, but why insurers and railroads?

"Property-liability insurers could well be paying out less in claims as auto speed limits are lowered," says S&P, adding that if industrial activity is cut there might be a concurrent decline in claims for payment.

As for the railroads, "They could logically become the transportation medium of choice over long distances because they can perform better than truckers on the basis of fuel economy per ton . . ."

Sindlinger & Co., a consumer polling and market research firm, foresees a sharp improvement sometime in the next few months. It based its outlook on the attitude and financial condition of investors, as expressed in interviews.

In addition, it notes that certain roads will benefit from increased tonnage of coal shipments to replace oil and gas, and that some will benefit from having significant interests in oil and gas production.

Ford Joins The Curbing Of Energy

A broad range of instructions aimed at reducing energy uses has been issued to all Ford Motor Co. locations in the United States and Canada.

The instructions to all Ford plants and offices call for immediate implementation, according to Thomas A. Dunlap, chairman of Ford's newly-formed energy conservation task force.

"In light of the current energy shortage, the new task force was established by Henry Ford II, company board chairman," Dunlap explained. Dunlap also is director of the company's plant engineering office.

The first energy-conservation instructions issued to Ford locations were:

Reduce temperature in offices to sweater and suit coat comfort (approximately 68 degrees).

Reduce temperature in all other facilities to the maximum extent compatible with local needs.
